

School Aid Plan Of Eisenhower Seems Wrecked

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's school aid plan, 17 days after he offered it to Congress, already looks like a wreck. He produced it Feb. 8. He said 300,000 classrooms are needed and unless the federal government helps the states, the emergency will continue.

He suggested a three-year plan under which the government would give states and local communities 200 million dollars as a gift and 920 millions in loans.

Educators Critical
In Congress, Democrats and some Republicans jumped on the plan. So did one educator after another. Summed up, this was the criticism:

The 200-million-dollar gift was far too small for school needs. And by the interest on its loans, the government would be making money at states' expense.

Under the plan, states would have to set up special agencies to handle the loans. But some states' constitutions forbid such an arrangement. The three-year plan would be too brief for some of those constitutions to be changed.

Some states would have to pass special legislation to get in on the program. Some other states right now don't know whether they could participate. About eight are in position to take advantage of the loan arrangement right now.

Democrats Gather In Grand Rapids To Fashion Ticket

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Michigan Democrats gather today to fashion a state ticket which they hope will continue their last fall's victory momentum into the April 4 spring election.

Unlike the Republicans, meeting a week ago in Detroit, the Democrats have no top echelon battle among their leaders and can settle down to nominating a state ticket without furor.

Caucuses Tonight
Much of the pre-convention hullabaloo got off to an early start among party leaders who attended Thursday night's testimonial dinner here for Gov. Williams.

The convention opens formally at 11 a.m. Saturday in Civic Auditorium, but tonight's activities will have more than the usual formality because district caucuses will be held at 10 p.m. in scattered hotel rooms.

The Democrats are trying an innovation—the Friday night caucuses—in an attempt to speed up the convention itself. Traditionally, caucuses have been held just before the convention opens and usually delay the formal proceedings.

Party leaders were confident they would build a ticket which could win as handily in April as theirs did last fall.

Court Positions Open
One element in this hope was word that Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth of Flint, former attorney general and widely popular in the party, had agreed to accept nomination to the State Supreme Court Justice Clark J. Adams of Pontiac was retreating from his refusal to return to state politics and might agree to team up with Roth for the supreme court race. Two positions are open.

Some elements of the party were reported excited about the possibility of nomination Circuit Judge Eugene F. Black of Port Huron for the court race. Black is a former Republican attorney general who broke with his party, accepted the circuit judge appointment from Williams and has been blasting the Republican nominees already.

Advance dope indicated that Lynn M. Bartlett, assistant superintendent of Grosse Pointe schools, is the prime candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Soo Man Favored
Paul Adams, Sault Ste. Marie attorney, was considered to have an edge for one of two places on the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan.

The other opening seems now to lie between Eugene B. Power of Ann Arbor and Traverse City, and John M. Veale of St. Clair Shores.

The race for a single opening on the state board of education reportedly lies between Frank A. Semperger, Melvindale school official, and John H. Schneider, former Wayne County Circuit Court Commissioner.

Cut Down Size Of Red Armies, Russia Advised

LONDON (AP) — The West countered Soviet demands for a nuclear weapons ban today with an overall disarmament proposal calling on Russia and Red China to reduce their armies.

The offer was made known to newsmen as delegates of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Russia made ready to resume secret disarmament talks that ended in stalemate here last June.

U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. was scheduled to meet in London's Lancashire House with Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, British Minister of State Anthony Nutting, France's Jules Moch, and Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner.

Two Young Children Missing Two Days Southeast Of Saginaw

SAGINAW (AP) — Police and volunteers continued their search today for two young children, missing since late Wednesday.

The youngsters, Charles Schram, 10, and his 8-year-old sister, Georgianna, were last seen near the banks of the Flint River near their home 10 miles southeast of Saginaw.

Police dragged the mouth of Pine Creek where it empties into the river after children's footprints were found along the creek bank.

An airplane from the state police post joined in the search Thursday.

NO. 1 MICHIGAN DEMOCRAT—Carol Ludington, 25, is Michigan's latest addition to the political world. Originally a New York farm girl, the five-foot-three, hazel-eyed blonde will direct the Michigan Democratic Central Committee's spring election campaign for state educational offices and justices of the state's Supreme Court.

Moscow Calling For More Corn

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party today called on its youth division to spearhead a vigorous campaign to grow corn in the American style.

This was in line with a speech by party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev last month, praising American farming methods, particularly in planting more corn to feed livestock. Failure in the field of agriculture was one of the main reasons cited by Georgi M. Malenkov when he resigned as premier Feb. 8.

The appeal to young farmers was made by the Central Committee of the Young Communist League (Komsomol). It was described by Tass and published in all Soviet newspapers.

Western observers have expressed scepticism over the ability of Soviet agriculture to copy the American system of corn-hog production, due to climatic conditions in this country. The Komsomol appeal does not admit this difficulty, saying:

"Corn is truly a wonderful plant. . . . It grows excellently in the South of our land and also, under conditions, in the North."

Launching Of Second Nuclear Submarine Scheduled In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's second nuclear submarine, the Sea Wolf, probably will be launched within the next two or three months.

The sister of the 3,000-ton Nautilus—but with improvements in design and an atomic engine of different type—has been building since June 1953.

On the basis of time required for building the first hull, the Sea Wolf apparently will be scheduled to go down the ways at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. at New London, Conn., sometime in May.

Socialists Beaten In Move To Delay Rearming Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — Parliament today defeated overwhelmingly a new attempt by the Socialist opposition to suspend debate on the Paris treaties to free and reararm West Germany.

It was the second such unsuccessful maneuver by the Socialists since the three-day debate on treaty ratification started Thursday in the Bundestag (lower house).

A spokesman for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party told the deputies that the Saar, whose future "European" status under the Paris pacts touched off a rebellion by two parties of the governing coalition, is

Second Bloodless Victory Scored By Communists

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China today abandoned tiny Nanchishan to the Chinese Reds, giving the Communists another bloodless victory in their civil war.

The Defense Ministry said the evacuation was carried out without U.S. assistance and with no interference by the Reds.

The ministry refused to divulge the number of troops involved, but the garrison of regulars and guerrillas totaled perhaps 5,000.

Fort Blown Up

A ministry spokesman said the island's fortifications were blown up before the withdrawal and all supplies and equipment were brought to Formosa.

The entire civilian population, a little more than 2,000, chose to leave rather than come under Red rule, the spokesman told a news conference. All arrived safely in Formosa.

Nationalist spokesmen insisted right up to the end that Nanchishan would be defended.

Nanchishan, 140 miles north of Formosa and 23 miles off the Red mainland, was the northern anchor of Chiang Kai-shek's chain of offshore island outposts.

Its loss followed by less than three weeks the evacuation of the Tachen Islands, 200 miles north of Formosa. The Tachens were surrendered without a fight after the Reds stormed and captured Yikiangshan, eight miles to the north.

Matsus Next?

The evacuation of Nanchishan rolled the civil war front southward to the Matsus complex, 100 miles northwest of Formosa and about 20 miles off the mainland. Besides the Matsus, the Nationalists hold only Quemoy Island outside the U.S.-protected Formosa defense zone, which includes Formosa and the nearby Pescadores.

The Matsus are opposite a Red port, Fochow, just as Quemoy is off Amoy, another Red port. The Nationalists decided to abandon three-square-mile Nanchishan because of U.S. refusal to aid in its defense.

In the view of Washington officials, Nanchishan had strategic value to the Nationalists as a radar and sea movements along the coast. It has considerable psychological value to the Reds as a place to be exploited as evidence of Communist invincibility in the Far East.

Even while pulling out of Nanchishan, the Nationalists maintained the tempo of their air strikes in the area.

Official reports said Nationalist warplanes Thursday night sank four Communist vessels between Nanchishan and the Tachens. Other planes bombed Red-held Peilungshan, 12½ miles north of Nanchishan.

Can't Come Feb. 30

OMAHA (AP) — A lady said she got a traffic ticket ordering her to appear in court Feb. 30. She asked what she should do. City Prosecutor Charles Fryzek suggested the date be amended to March 2 but Traffic Judge Frank Nimtz said: "If she doesn't come in there is nothing we can do. There is no such date."

Congressmen Raise Their Salaries From $15,000 To $23,750

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today approved without debate a compromise bill boosting the pay of members of Congress to $23,750 a year.

Its action sent the measure to the Senate.

The House passed the bill by unanimous consent after a clerk had read the adjustments, worked out by a Senate-House committee, between differing Senate and House bills.

The committee split the difference between $25,000 voted by the House and $22,500 voted by the Senate. The present pay is $15,000.

The measure also carries pay raises of $7,500 to $10,000 for federal judges.

The $23,750 finally agreed upon actually will amount to somewhat more than that. It is split into a $22,500 basic salary and a $1,250 tax-free expense fund. The tax exemption feature means this allowance actually is worth more than $1,250. But this money may be used only to meet "excess" office expenses of the members, and will be paid on itemized voucher.

The bill does not disturb a $3,000 deduction for income tax purposes which members now may claim for the extra cost of living expenses in Washington.

The measure also includes a Senate provision which is a big benefit to many members of Congress. It would give them expenses for five trips to their home state each year, in addition to the present 20 cents a mile for one round trip each session.

Some members said this could mean as much as $2,500 a year to a senator or representative who lives on the West Coast.

Backers of the bill said the salary fixed for members of Congress would restore their purchasing power to about what it was in 1939 when they got $10,000.

The over-all cost of the pay increases was estimated at about seven million dollars a year.

Meanwhile, the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee

would increase the federal deficit, already estimated at $2,400,000,000 for the year beginning July 1, and thus bring more inflation and higher prices.

But Democrats retorted that Republicans pushed through even bigger tax cuts last year when the estimated federal deficit was even bigger. They said the GOP tax program favored corporations and the wealthy, and their tax cut would restore "justice for the little fellow."

Both Sides Claim They'll Win On Income Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopeful but uncertain claims of victory came from both sides today as the House approached a showdown vote on the Democratic drive to cut income taxes $20 a person next year.

The Democrats, with a 29-vote majority of the House membership, appeared to hold a slim but far from sure margin over all-out opposition from House Republican leaders and President Eisenhower.

The Democratic bill would provide a $20 tax cut for each taxpayer and each of his dependents—$100 annually for a family of five. It would relieve about five million taxpayers with low incomes or large families from any federal income tax bill.

Democrats made this tax cut part of a package bill which also would continue present corporation income and excise tax rates for one more year.

Under present law the corporation rate is scheduled to drop from 32 to 47 per cent April 1. And on the same date excises are due to drop on automobiles, cigarettes, gasoline, liquor, beer and wine.

Continuing these rates would save almost three billion dollars a year in federal revenue. The income tax cut would cost about $2,200,000,000 over a full year.

In five hours of stormy debate Thursday, Republicans assaulted the tax cuts as "blackjacking . . . cheap politics . . . unpardonable irresponsibility." They said it would increase the federal deficit, already estimated at $2,400,000,000 for the year beginning July 1, and thus bring more inflation and higher prices.

But Democrats retorted that Republicans pushed through even bigger tax cuts last year when the estimated federal deficit was even bigger. They said the GOP tax program favored corporations and the wealthy, and their tax cut would restore "justice for the little fellow."

Pollution Solved In Detroit River

LANSING (AP) — After a campaign of nearly 20 years, the State Water Resources Commission reported today that an end is in sight for water pollution problems of downriver Detroit communities.

Milton P. Adams, commission secretary, said that Melvindale, the last of the downriver communities without sewage treatment, should solve its problems this spring.

Adams said the commission has been working on pollution problems of communities in the area since 1937.

Albion city officials appeared before the commission Thursday to say they would ask for extension of a June deadline for construction of a sewage treatment plant. The city was charged with pollution the Kalamazoo River.

They said the plant is partially constructed and should be completed by the fall of 1956.

World Observes Day Of Prayer

NEW YORK (AP) — Today may seem no different than the rest. The same sounds and movements in the streets, the same routines in offices, homes and workshops. But something special will be going on.

It may be unseen, soundless and hidden in men's thoughts. Or it may be whispered, or spoken aloud before crowds. But whatever the form, millions of people around the earth today are making a great, concerted prayer.

This is the World Day of Prayer, and Christians in nearly every country—130 of them—and in most towns and cities in the United States—more than 20,000 of them—are joining in.

At various hours of the day, in various settings—in churches, hospitals, colleges and factories—groups will gather to bow their heads, to kneel, to give voice to the wordless, universal language.

The praying began at daybreak in the Fiji and Tonga islands, just beyond the international dateline,

Newspaper Sales At All-Time High

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Daily newspaper circulation in the United States set a new all-time record in 1954. The 87th edition of N. W. Ayer & Son's directory of newspapers and periodicals disclosed today.

The Ayer publication, out Tuesday, said that combined circulation of English language dailies by the end of last year was 54,860,429, an increase of more than 800,000 over the previous record set in 1953. This was the largest increase in four years, Ayer reported.

Evening newspapers had a daily circulation of 43,902,000, an increase of half a million copies. Morning newspapers did even better, with a jump of 576,000 to a total of 21,239,000.

Sunday newspapers had a combined total of 45,824,000, up 183,000 from the previous figure.

House Passes Road Bill; Senate Has Rival Plan

LANSING (AP) — A House-Senate split over the highway problem confronted legislators today after the House ended weeks of wrangling by passing the Peltz-Williams Bill.

House Democrats and Republicans, who had fought to a deadlock over highways, forgot their squabbles Thursday to rush through the compromise plan without a single dissenting vote.

An amended version of a bill introduced by Rep. Emil A. Peltz (R-Rogers City), it calls for a referendum on a one- and a-half cent per gallon gas tax increase and a 25 per cent boost in truck license costs.

Meanwhile, the Senate went ahead with plans of its own, and there appeared to be little support in that chamber for the House bill.

The Senate bill resembles the House measure on two major points. It calls for a one-and-a-half cent per gallon gas tax increase and a 25 per cent increase in truck license fees without a referendum. The two plans also differ in the distribution of tax increases among governmental units.

Under the House plan, the additional revenue would be distributed according to the present formula:

Hanna Co. Reports $12,824,758 Income

NEW YORK (AP) — M. A. Hanna Co. today reported net income of $12,824,758 or $4.03 a share for 1954. In the previous year, income was $13,554,287 or $4.27 a share.

The company noted that Iron Ore Co. of Canada, in which it has a substantial interest, delivered 34 million tons of iron ore from its new Quebec-Labrador mining regions.

The Peltz-Williams plan also gives the power to issue bonds and assign priority for highway construction to the State Administrative Board, dealing Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler out of the picture.

Under the Senate bill, three-quarters of the extra money would go to the state and one-quarter to cities, villages and counties.

Despite a unanimous vote in the House, leaders of both parties gave the Peltz-Williams bill only a slim chance of passage in the Senate.

Iraq Joins West In Defense Pact

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq took up a post in the Western defense lineup today after signing a mutual defense pact with Turkey. She was the first Arab state to forsake a neutral role in the East-West cold war.

In Cairo, a high government spokesman promptly declared Egypt would call a meeting of all Arab League nations except Iraq and demand the expulsion of the Baghdad government and revision of the league agreement.

If the demand is not heeded, he added, Egypt will either withdraw from the eight-nation group or renounce any commitment to defend Iraq. The Arab League is a collective security alliance. Egypt, generally acknowledged as its leader, has insisted the Arabs should stick to their neutralist position and depend on themselves for defense.

Defying Egyptian threats, Iraqi Premier Nuri Said signed the agreement with Turkey Thursday night after six hours of almost continuous discussions with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes.

Adlai's Former Wife Gets Liquor Permit For Her Social Club

CHICAGO (AP) — The way apparently is clear for Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson to obtain a liquor license for a social club and art center she operates in her former home.

Mrs. Stevenson is the former wife of Adlai Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential candidate.

Previously her application for a liquor license had been rejected. But Thursday Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor granted his approval and forwarded it to the city collector, who issues licenses. O'Connor acted after the corporation counsel ruled a club may be licensed to sell liquor in an apartment house zone as long as the club is not operated for profit. Mrs. Stevenson said her club is operated for the benefit of art

Nudism Exponents Defend Their Ideas In Lansing Hearing

LANSING (AP) — There's one thing about nudist camps: with or without a program, you can't tell a colonel from a GI.

So said one of the country's leading exponents of nakedness—Narvel E. Packwood, executive director of the American Sunbathing Assn.

Packwood and several other nudists appeared on the floor of the House Thursday night to sound off in favor of the sun and the open air.

Ministers Lead Attack
The occasion: a public hearing on an anti-nudist bill, conducted by the House Judiciary Committee.

"Nudism teaches you a true sense of values," Packwood said. "For example, when a colonel visits a nudist camp the brass on his shoulder disappears and he is no better than a GI."

Packwood went ahead to say that nudists, as a rule, are better educated and better behaved, if not better clothed, than most other people.

The Rev. Braxton B. Sawyer, Fort Smith Arkansas evangelist, led the anti-nudist forces. Several ministers from the Battle Creek area stood behind him.

Sawyer distributed several copies of "Sunshine and Health," published by a nudist organization. The supply was grabbed up in a jiffy by legislators and interested parties.

No Sex Mainaces

The magazine, said Sawyer, holding up a copy, contains pictures of a "stripteaser and night club queen."

Sawyer charged that the nudist liked to locate their camps near Army installations. The nudists said the Army seemed to be locating its camps near nudist installations.

Mrs. Reed Suplee, wife of the president of the National Sunbathing Assn., said the anti-nudists were "ignorant of facts."

Mrs. Suplee, who wore a buttoned-up coat, scarf and gloves during her testimony, pointed to the nudist delegation and demanded: "Do these people look like sex maniacs? Look at them! They are all fine people. I know them all and respect them all."

Sawyer accused some of the nudists of engaging "in the business of pornography" by selling nudist playing cards and drinking glasses printed with nude figures. This the nudists denied.

The nudists said sunshine gardens camp near Battle Creek is the only nudist colony in Michigan, although there are five nudist clubs which meet regularly.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Peter J. Kelly (D-Detroit), would impose penalties on nudists, nudist camp operators and publishers of nudist magazines.

League Presents Information On Power Problem

The League of Women Voters last night in three meetings in Escanaba presented information relating to proposed solutions of the Escanaba electric power problem. Meetings last night were held at the Franklin, Jefferson and Webster Schools. Six members of the League, in three teams of two at each school, presented information and answered questions.

On Thursday evening, March 3, the League will present the same type program at meetings to be held in the John A. Lemmer School and the Washington School.

Sifted The Facts

In its introduction to discussion of the power problem the League representatives announced that the League is speaking on the problem because of the vote on the proposed sale of the city's electric utility on April 4; and because "the League believes that there are principles of good government and practical problems of city management in the decision on the power problem."

Noting that arguments on the subject have "ranged from facts through the realm of distortion and gossip and into the wildest speculation," the League reports that it has "tried to bring some order to confusion by sifting facts and predictions based on fact out of all the arguments and arranging them in logical fashion."

The problem is to find the best source of power for the City of Escanaba. In its "Guide to the Power Problem" the League cites material obtained from the following sources: 1 — The Upper Peninsula Power Company Proposal to the city; 2 — Pfeiffer and Shultz engineering report to the city; 3 — Proposed contract between Alger-Delta Electric Cooperative and the city; 4 — Conser and Townsend Engineering report to the city; and 5 — Annual reports and other public records of the city.

Following is a comparative summary of information compiled by the League and presented in its "Guide to the Power Problem":

Alger-Delta Cooperative

An electric generating plant would be owned by the Cooperative but the City of Escanaba would continue to own its electric distribution system if the city should accept the contract proposal of the Cooperative.

Generating capacity would be two 7,500 kw generators, one for the use of the City of Escanaba; there would be interconnection with Gladstone's 8,000 kw plant and emergency standby from Mead Corporation.

Additional generating capacity would be needed in 1965, based on a 6 per cent year growth in load. No capital outlay would be required by the city; income per year to the city general fund assuming there is no change in rates would be $190,000 to $250,000; and income to schools and county would be $32,500 per year. Electric retail rates would be set by the City Council; wholesale rates would be guaranteed at 1.09 cents per kwh, maximum, which would decline as use increased.

U. P. Power Company

Under the proposal of the Upper Peninsula Power Company the generators would be owned by the Company and it would also own the distribution system now owned by the city.

Generating capacity would be one 12,500 kw generator; there would be interconnection with the company's system with a 10,000 kw line to Gwinn; and emergency standby from Mead Corporation.

Additional generating capacity would be needed in 1962, based on a 6 per cent year growth in load.

No capital outlay would be required by the city; the purchase price to the city for the distribution system would be $1,200,000; and income per year to the city general fund would be $53,400 in city taxes and interest on purchase price; and income to schools and county would be $34,000 per year taxes.

The same retail rates would apply for three years. Retail rates would be controlled by the Michigan Public Service Commission to allow a 6.9 per cent return on investment to the company after taxes. (Federal taxes 52 per cent.)

Municipal Plant

The city would own its own plant if the decision is for a municipal plant, and it would continue to own its distribution system.

Generating capacity proposed is two 7,500 kw generators plus 1,500 kw from the city steam utility; interconnections with Gladstone's 8,000 kw and with emergency standby from Mead Corporation is proposed.

Additional generating capacity would be needed in 1970, based on a 6 per cent year growth in load. A capital outlay of $4,400,000 would be required by the city; with income per year to the city general fund estimated at $75,000 to $250,000; there would be no income to the schools and county. Retail rates for electricity in the city would be set by the City Council as in the past.

POWER STUDY—Mrs. Sam Molod and Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder of the League of Women Voters conducted an information program on the subject of Escanaba's electric problem last night at the Franklin Schools. Similar programs were held at the Webster and Jefferson Schools and other programs are scheduled to be held later. A portion of the members of the audience are shown here. (Daily Press Photo)

Letters To The Editor

Editor
Escanaba Daily Press
Escanaba, Michigan

Dear Sir:

Private power, municipal power, or REA—a good battle is shaping up and I would like to throw some more light on this very vital subject that will be put to the test this coming April in the spring elections.

Let's go back to the mid-thirties at the then Stevens Hotel in Chicago where a meeting was held between the General Motors Corporation and the Trustees of the L. Stephenson Estate. General Motors was considering locating a plant in Delta County. However, the sale of this property to General Motors fell through. As a result Delta County lost a chance to grow industrially and economically. Since then our population has increased only a fraction of 1 per cent and we are still losing most of our young people to more progressive communities.

What is REA? REA is just what the name implies — RURAL ELECTRIFICATION—this is a government subsidized business that was created for the benefit of our farmer friends. If the farmers and the people in our rural areas need extra power, Escanaba would find itself cut-off and subject to "political footballing" depending on which party is in power.

Let's look closely at the people who are backing REA over private power—who are they? Aren't they the same people who benefit from the city's steam plant? I don't blame them for trying to save our steam plant when these same people can put up a building, lease it, and connect up to City Steam and save the cost of a boiler. What do they care how much the tenant pays for heat? These people are against private power's offer to buy the power distribution system of the city because they know that the steam plant will be discontinued and they will have to equip their buildings with boilers. The steam plant benefits a few people, but all of us help support it with our taxes. You have heard these same people say that we are not capable of voting on this problem, because the situation is "over our heads." They don't want the people to be heard and they are going to be awfully surprised come election day.

The opponents of private power say that our taxes will rise if we sell our distribution system — do they know that our neighbors in Gladstone run the whole city with four employees in the city hall and they handle one-third of the money that we do in Escanaba? With private power and no raise in rates, guaranteed for three years, we will attract more industry, our present plants will expand, we will have better schools, churches, doctors, lawyers, and an accredited hospital. As these will have to keep in step with industry.

HARNISCHFEGGER CORPORATION spent $4,000,000 in Escanaba last year, of this $185,000 was for trucking alone! $125,000 went to one of our local trucking firms—just think of how many jobs, at a living wage, this created. HARNISCHFEGGER paid approximately $60,000 in taxes, about one-half of this went to the city, $10,000 for rent of the city-owned building they occupy on Stephenson Avenue. What has become of this additional money to the City?

If we had private power, we have a chance to attract another company with a payroll as large as HARNISCHFEGGER. Our two largest employers want private power—surely the people running these large firms have a much bigger stake in this community than do the steam plant users.

The only increase in running our city should have been a cost of living increase, because our population hasn't changed appreciably and the last raise I heard the city employees receive was 4 cents an hour, this is 32 cents a day or $1.60 a week. How much food can you buy on a $1.60 a week?

This reminds me of a true story that a very good friend of mine told me. It seems that my friend's father worked in the woods at Stonington many years ago and the old gentlemen worked hard all winter, charging up his needs at the company store. Spring came and when he went to get his pay, his employer told him that he was a pretty lucky guy because he "still has a barrel of pork coming". Now, are we to return to the horse and buggy days, or are we to progress? It seems to me that our two largest employers, HARNISCHFEGGER and MEAD, would never have achieved a prominent place in their fields, if they followed the leadership of our city and the mistakes that were made over the years. Give Herman Menck of Harnischfeger a five inch bore and he will produce something useful—not dry water wells.

Now the REA boys talk about having an appraisal made of the distribution system. Let's look at the record. Back in 1946, the city owned the Brewery property on Ludington Street. This building was appraised by the AMERICAN APPRAISAL COMPANY at well over $200,000. This was sold, by the city administration, after a feeble attempt of advertising for bids in legal space so small that it had to be pointed out, in order to see it. They had just two bidders, one was for $8,800.00 and the other bid was for $9,700.00. One of the bidders wanted the building for a cheese warehouse, but the property finally wound up in the title of a city councilman, who was sitting on the council when the building was sold. Do you consider this good leadership? What do you think? As for me I'm going to go along with people who are successful and who are above selfish motives, and I'm going to back private power's bid to buy our city's decaying power distribution system for a million two hundred thousands dollars.

Sincerely,
Harold C. "Pat" Hayes

White Pine Designated Official Michigan Tree

LANSING (AP)—If Gov. Williams agrees, Michigan's official state tree will be the White Pine.

The Senate Monday night joined the House in passing the Hubert Bill to make the designation in commemoration of the part giant stands of virgin White Pine made to Michigan's economy.

Recruitment Board — An important meeting of the Escanaba Recreation Board will be held Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p. m., in the city council chambers.

The first jewelry was fashioned, before recorded history, for divine protection and magic power.

Voter Registration Deadline March 7

Escanaba residents who are not yet registered to vote in the spring election to be held April 4 must register at the office of City Clerk George Harvey not later than 8 p. m. Monday, March 7.

Besides the biennial spring election, the city has a special ballot on the question of the sale of the electric utility. City Clerk Harvey pointed out that any qualified voter may vote on the electric power question, whether or not they are owners of property in the city.

To register and vote, the person must be 21 years of age, a resident of Michigan for six months and of the City of Escanaba for at least 30 days.

Men who have been discharged from the armed forces, and who voted absent voter ballots while in service, must register if they are to vote now as civilians, the city clerk added.

Conference On Education Will Be On April 21

The Upper Peninsula Central Region citizens conference on education will be held Thursday April 21 at Northern Michigan College, Marquette, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the conference planning committee held at the House of Ludington here.

The planning meeting was attended by 26 of the 30 committee members from the six counties comprising the central region. Ogden E. Johnson, Ishpeming, general chairman, presided.

The counties comprising the region are Alger, Delta, Dickinson, Marquette, Menominee and Schoolcraft. Similar conferences will be held in Ironwood for the Western Upper Peninsula Region and Sault Ste. Marie for the Eastern Upper Peninsula Region.

14 Regional Conferences

Fourteen regional conferences are scheduled in Michigan prior to the state conference to be held in Lansing May 18. State delegations will attend the White House Conference on Education to be held in Washington Nov. 28 through Dec. 1.

Ten major topics for discussion have been approved for the regional conference. They are: community education, shortage of classrooms and other school facilities, staffing classrooms with sufficient well-qualified teachers securing necessary finances, the organization of adequate school districts, the needs of youth programs and problems, citizenship participation and public relations meeting the needs of mentally and physically handicapped, issues concerning the roles of Michigan colleges and universities, adult education.

Discussion leaders will be assigned for each topic.

Expect Over 200

Local committees in each county will conduct discussions before service groups and other organizations concerning the school problems and will invite representatives to the regional conference at Marquette April 21. More than 200 persons from the six counties are expected to attend the regional conference.

County chairmen are Jess Pomazal, Escanaba; Carl Carlson Manistique; Herbert Corey, Stephenson; Mrs. Eunice Richter Kingsford; and Henry Bothwell Marquette.

Ken Gunderman, editor of the Escanaba Press, was appointed publicity chairman for the conference.

Arrangements for speakers and resource personnel were assigned to the executive committee and three additional persons to be appointed by the chairmen. Members of the executive committee are: Ogden E. Johnson, Ishpeming, chairman; Jean Worth, Menominee, and Mrs. Morris Cohodes, Iron Mountain, vice chairmen; Henry J. Bothwell, Marquette, secretary.

WESK Will Present Rotary Anniversary Program On Sunday

In commemoration of Rotary's Golden Anniversary year, WESK the Escanaba NBC radio station, will broadcast a one-hour all-Rotary program from noon until 1 p. m. Sunday.

The program will begin with a wire recording of the Golden Anniversary Rotary Ladies Night dinner-meeting at the Delta Hotel last Tuesday night with Rotarians John A. Lemmer, James R. Fitzharris and Clinton B. Dunathan giving informational and humorous reports of Rotary activities and conditions existing in Escanaba in the early years of Rotary.

Broadcast of these talks will last about three quarters of an hour, Barclay Conley, WESK manager, said today. The last 15 minutes of the Rotary program will be devoted to a special dramatization of Rotary activities on a national level.

Elving Thorpe To Head Soil District

STEPHENSON—Officers for the year were elected at the regular meeting of the Menominee County Soil Conservation District in Stephenson Tuesday evening.

Elving Thorpe was elected president to succeed Wendall Sandahl, who has presided three and one half years. Harry Hanchek was named vice-president and Mark Mulzer secretary-treasurer. Felix Verbiski will be in charge of equipment and Wensall Sansahl was named chairman of the Forestry Program.

Thorpe who returned from a Forestry committee meeting in Lansing this week announced that the Michigan Conservation Department still has red pine transplants which could be set aside for district co-operators on request. Persons wishing trees should notify Allen C. Weber before March 5. Weber said the use of the tree planter has already been requested for nearly a full season's work.

WE HAVE GREAT FAITH IN O-JIB-WA BITTERS SAYS DETROIT COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carr, 16703 Pierson St., Detroit, both used O-JIB-WA BITTERS and found the relief that they wanted.

"I suffered for about four months with a sharp pain in my right shoulder and arm. When I moved, it pained so much that I had trouble fastening my clothes. I tried massaging my arm and other treatments, but it didn't help at all. My husband too was ailing, as he was bothered with rheumatism in his legs and could hardly get around. He could walk, but every step was painful. We both had trouble sleeping nights because our aches and pains were so bad. My sister told me about O-JIB-WA BITTERS helping her rheumatism, so we both decided to try it. It took a couple of weeks before it helped us very much, but within two months, we were both well again. My arm is as good as new, and my husband isn't bothered any more either. We sleep well nights and feel better in every way. We have great faith in O-JIB-WA BITTERS because of the wonderful help it gave us, and are glad to recommend it to all who suffer as we did.

Fr. Hodik Will Lecture Here

The Rev. Rudolph James Hodik, Casco, Wis., better known as the "Wisconsin rosary priest," will give two illustrated lectures in Bonifas Memorial Auditorium in Escanaba under the sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus Council 640.

The first, Sunday, Feb. 27, at 8:15 p. m. will be on Therese Neuman, famed stigmatic of Konnersreuth, Germany. Father Hodik has made several trips to Germany to obtain information in this highly controversial phenomena and his description of the life of Therese and of his visits with her will be of unusual interest.

The second lecture Monday Feb. 28, at 8:15 p. m., will deal with another famous personality Padre Pio, a Capuchin, who has borne the stigmata the past 34 years. Father Hodik also has visited Padre Pio and has first hand information on his life and works.

Both lectures are open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Arrangements for the appearance here of the noted lecturer were made by Alex St. Cyr, chairman of the Catholic Activities Committee of the K. of C. Council.

Both lectures will be illustrated by colored slides of pictures taken by Father Hodik on his visits.

Greene Appointed Delta Bond Chairman

John L. Greene of Escanaba has been appointed 1955 county chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the U. S. Treasury for Delta County, it is announced by State Chairman, Noble D. Travis.

Greene, executive vice president of the First National Bank, will direct the volunteer effort to meet the county's bond sales quota of $871,575.

Announcement of 83 county chairman appointments officially launched the state-wide campaign to sell $321,800,000 worth of Series E and Series H Bonds this year, the state's largest peacetime quota, an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over the 1954 goal.

Russia Gives China 8 Small Submarines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is reported to have turned over to Red China perhaps eight small coastal-type submarines.

American officials who reported this today said the Russians are also training Chinese Communist crews to operate the craft.

Little firm information appears to be available here on whether any of the subs have been operating in the Formosa area. However, the Chinese Nationalists claim their planes have sunk two submarines in the area in recent days.

Awards Presented To Holy Name Students

Three Holy Name students, Carol Valind, Ann McDonough and Karen Henriksen, were awarded $10 certificates, donated by the local banks, by Benjamin Johns of the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce for their prize winning essays in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest. The awards were made Tuesday at a pre-Lenten girls' assembly in the multi-purpose room of Holy Name High School.

The Future Homemaker Award was presented Joyce Taylor, senior, whose prize winning essay has been entered in the state contest. Sister M. Benedette, principal of the girls, made the presentation.

Following the awards, a talent show was held and it featured acts from the combined girls' department.

Rotary International Observes 50 Years Of Service To World

ROTARY International celebrated its Golden Anniversary on Wednesday of this week and the Escanaba Press is happy to join with folks throughout the world

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Ever hear the expression "Let's get down to brass tacks?" Of course, you have, and you know what it means, too, though you might have a little difficulty formulating a quick definition. Yes, getting down to brass tacks means getting to matters of immediate practical importance, away from fanciful dreaming and down to tangible realities.

But did you ever wonder where the phrase comes from? Well, the first explanation I have found which sounds authentic appears in the first issue of the new book-magazine AMERICAN HERITAGE. In an article on the wonders of the old country store, Gerald Carson writes: "In general, the right side of the store might be called the ladies' department . . . On the shelves (were) piece goods by the bolt. Brass tacks were given into the time-smoothed counter to mark an exact yard. 'Don't hold it up and guess. Get down to brass tacks.'"

This persuasive addition to the lore of the American language is only one very minor item in the treasure-trove of fascinating pictures and articles about the American past which make up this stunning new volume, AMERICAN HERITAGE, in case you have not already heard, is the publication of the Society of American Historians and boasts such honored names as Allen Nevins, Bruce Catton and Carl Carner on its masthead. What's more, on the evidence of this first issue, these men are not going to be just window-dressing. Their contributions are considerable, ranging from an eloquent preface by Catton (whose STILLNESS AT APOMATOX was the prize-winning nonfiction book of the year in 1954) to an article by Nevins which manages to shed fresh light on that complex man, Henry Ford.

But there is more, much more, in this colorful initial volume—a piece on the Old Fall River Line, which will delight all long-memoried New Englanders, a fine bit of reporting by Theodore Roosevelt on the funeral of King Edward VII, as well as a handsome portfolio of painting by such frontier masters as Frederick Remington and Charles M. Russell.

If I seem uncommonly enthusiastic about AMERICAN HERITAGE, it is because I know of no book or magazine venture in the past decade which promises to make so rich a contribution to the education and entertainment of young and old alike. And that is not a judgment lightly arrived at. So, getting down or back to brass tacks, AMERICAN HERITAGE, is an amazing achievement and whacking good fun too.

to extend congratulations to this wonderful service club.

It was just 50 years ago that four men met in a Chicago office. They came together at the suggestion of Paul Harris, a young lawyer, who felt that men of different trades and professions should become acquainted. At first, the new club met in rotation at the stores and offices of members. This practice, soon abandoned in favor of regular meetings at the same hotel or restaurant, explains the name—"Rotary."

Very quickly, Rotary became international. With less than two score clubs in existence, one was formed in Winnipeg, Canada. The very next year saw the establishment of clubs in Dublin and Belfast, Ireland, and in London, England. Thereafter, Rotary spread rapidly over the globe, through the Old World to the Far East, from the tip of Latin America to the North Cape and to Australia.

The international pattern of Rotary's expansion throws light on its character. Rotary is not exclusive. It has no secrets, no mysterious rites to arouse suspicion. Men of all nationalities, religions and cultures are invited to join.

In consequence, Rotary clubs flourish in countries where bitter feelings of racial or political antagonism have existed. Neighbors, whose differences had maintained a wall of silent hate between them, find themselves enjoying a cheerful fellowship together at the weekly meetings of Rotary Clubs. And the fruits of their acquaintance are soon apparent in the community at large as understanding improves and mutual cooperation develops.

Such experiences were the background for a conviction that grew with the spread of Rotary across the world. If association in Rotary can have these consequences in local communities, why cannot a similar contribution be made in the wider community that is the world? The answer to this question came at the first of the annual Rotary international conventions to be held outside the U. S. A., at Edinburgh in 1921. Rotarians from twenty-five countries, gathered in the Scottish capital, declared their determination "To encourage and foster . . . the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service."

The sales manager of a fast-growing outfit sticks pins in a big relief map behind his desk to show where every one of his salesmen is located at a given moment. Ragsdale, of the Pennsylvania sector, was not, in the opinion of his boss, living up to his early promise, and was summoned to the home office for a pep talk and re-indoctrination.

"I'm not saying you're in imminent danger yet of being fired," was the stern end of the sales exec's warning, "but if you'll look carefully at my map, you'll note I've loosened your pin."

The Doctor Says . . .

There's No Single Rule On Marriage For All Epileptics

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A problem which no doubt worries the families of all those afflicted with epilepsy as well as those who have it themselves relates to the inheritance of this disease. Questions of many kinds arise: "Should those with epilepsy marry?" Recently a reader asked, "If a father is subject to epileptic seizures is his daughter likely to take these spells?"

Many aspects of this problem are exceedingly difficult to answer and frankly there is some difference of opinion about the answers. To the second question, however, one can say fairly definitely that the daughter of an epileptic father is not likely to have epilepsy though it is possible.

THERE ARE REASONS for believing that epilepsy is essentially an hereditary disease and runs to some extent in families. This definitely does not mean, however, that children of epileptic parents will always have the disease and as things stand now the decision on marriage and childbearing for those with epilepsy must be taken on an individual basis. There is also a recently advanced theory that epilepsy may be associated less with heredity than with complications occurring before, during or just after birth.

About three-quarters of those who develop epilepsy show signs before they reach the usual marriageable age. Thus they will be in possession of the facts. The decision on marriage depends partly on how severe the convulsions are and how frequently they come. Also, an instrument called the electroencephalograph, which measures the brain waves, is extremely useful. The electroencephalograph records the electrical waves which are passing through the brain at all times. In epilepsy these waves are different from normal waves and give important information on the severity of the disease.

WHAT ARE THE chances that a person with epilepsy will have an epileptic child? Some time ago the family histories of nearly two thousand victims of epilepsy were studied in an attempt to answer this question. These 2000 patients had over twelve thousand parents, brothers and sisters, and children. Of the twelve thousand only about one in forty had a history of more than one seizure.

WITH THE HELP of the history of past seizures, the family history of epilepsy and the results of the electroencephalograph, the physician is able to give a rough estimate on the chances that any given child of a marriage would be subject to seizures.

In the light of what we know now, therefore, marriage with or without children is not necessarily to be shunned because epileptic seizures have been present. The dominant point of view at present is that some epileptics should and some should not marry and have children.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—There's an even more penetrating way to "share the wealth," as the late Huey Long phrased it, than the Democratic party leaders have thought of with their $20 cut in taxes for everybody. It's equally logical and it could mean an even bigger potential in vote getting.

Thus there are about 55,000,000 citizens with incomes under $5,000 a year. This is a sizeable number of voters and enough to win an election if they vote solely on selfish grounds.

A scheme would be devised to free this entire group from the payment of any federal taxes whatsoever. It would cost the Treasury of the United States $8.5 billions. But if demagoguery is to be the rule, then there's a simple way to make it up—just increase the taxes on the persons with incomes of $25,000 a year or more. They're paying $8.7 billions a year already. The addition of $8.5 billions in tax payments would, of course, virtually confiscate the incomes of the most thrifty and the most successful citizens. Confiscation, however, is the eventual goal of the socialists, and the Democratic party is rapidly becoming the socialistic party in America anyway.

It so happens that there are about 800,000 taxpayers in this country whose incomes are $25,000 a year or over. They pay more in total taxes than do the 55,000,000 who have incomes under $5,000 a year. They are carrying the heaviest tax burden already.

DESTROY INCENTIVE

If the "share the wealth" doctrine is to become dominant, it would mean the eventual destruction of incentive and a consequent drop in the incomes of all persons now earning incomes over $5,000 a year. The goal of communism—as well as of its twin brother, socialism—is to do away with the managerial class or so to weaken its spirit as to cause the whole private-enterprise system to collapse.

Union labor, which has thrived under the system of risk capital, would not be able to get the increases in wages or pension benefits now enjoyed if the management class in America were wiped out as it has been in Soviet Russia or in countries where state capitalism is in vogue.

It is a paradox that the labor-union leaders in America have lined themselves up politically with the Democratic party, whose latest program confirms a suspicion that the party is bent on impairing the very economic system that has benefited labor so widely. But the rank and file of the workers do not have much to say about the political maneuvers of the labor bosses. Their dues, which are supposed to be used for union benefits, are applied to pay big salaries to executives of the unions who spend a large part of their time in political activities.

Also, by the use of the compulsory unionization law, the union bosses hold the power of economic life or death over the worker and, unless he goes along with the political-campaign programs, even though they lead to socialistic ends, the ordinary union member can lose his job as a punishment for failing to conform.

PROMISES ABANDONED

The Democratic party in the last election said through its leaders that it would support the President and promised also to favor policies of fiscal soundness. But the Democratic-controlled Congress has been here less than two months, and it is becoming crystal clear that such campaign pledges have already been abandoned.

A pattern of strategy is emerging. The Democratic leaders favor more and more spending—more billions for all kinds of socialistic adventures, including a program of government-owned electric-light-and-power projects. They also favor more and more exemptions from taxation for the maximum number of voters. Both approaches, while contradictory from any standpoint of fiscal soundness, mean a budget unbalanced by a wide margin. Then the Democratic party spokesmen will claim that the Eisenhower administration has failed to balance the budget as promised in 1952.

It is beginning to look as if the 1954 election was very costly to the American people because it was influenced by the most deceptive piece of campaign that the country has ever witnessed. The Democratic argument was that a depression was coming and that the number of unemployed would increase. It turns out now that the mild recession was short-lived and that business is booming because, in making 1955 plans, business men have had confidence in the fiscal policies of the Eisenhower administration. They expanded facilities after making a remarkable adjustment to the post-Korean war shrinkages in government spending.

Flying Commander Keeps Legion Banquet Dates With Airplane

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The American Legion isn't quite sure from one storm front to another whether it still has a national commander.

And local Legion posts are having a tough time deciding when to turn the heat off on the banquet chicken and green peas, pending his arrival.

But that's the worry the Legion took on when it elected a commander who flies his own racy airplane around the country.

Seaborn P. Collins, the lanky, easy-going ex-Air Force pilot from New Mexico, has already flown more than 50,000 miles barnstorming the speech circuit. And if his luck holds he'll probably log 150,000 miles before his Commander's term ends next summer.

Compared to the flying he did over the "Hump" during World War II, he insists, this is luxury traveling. But the Legion officials who accompany him from time to time aren't so sure.

A couple of weeks ago he had a hop from a small town in the heart of the Rockies to St. Louis, where he was scheduled to make a major dinner and radio speech.

Weather reports were bad but he ignored them to make the appointment. When he finally contacted the airport in St. Louis for landing instructions the tower operator said to a companion:

"If this guy isn't kidding about where he has come from you're about to see something interesting. He must have had icing conditions all the way."

It was interesting. Collins' radio aerial and the rest of the aircraft were sheathed in ice. When his plane sagged to a stop they had to chip open the door before he could get out.

He has worn out one plane already and the new one is a twin-engine four-seater capable of speeds up to 180 miles per hour. "It's the sweetest plane I've ever flown," he insists.

His most exciting experience in it took place when trying to fly to a speaking engagement in Guyton, a small town in the Oklahoma panhandle. On his way he got lost in a raging dust storm and headed 84 miles southwest to the town of Dalhart, Tex., which he found by radio.

He was fairly familiar with that country so when he found Dalhart he decided to fly low and follow the Rock Island railroad track back to Guyton, even though visibility was practically zero.

Meanwhile, the local Legionaires had organized a 200-car motorcade and drove to the pasture which is Guyton's airfield to illuminate Collins' landing. But after waiting more than an hour, they abandoned the wait and drove home.

Fifteen minutes later, Collins flew over, peering through the blackness to spot the field. Somehow he found it and landed safely. Fortunately a deputy sheriff picked him up as he was hitchhiking him up town and got him there in time to make the speech.

Despite some of the difficulties local Legionnaires have in coordinating Collins' arrival times with lunches and dinners they still think the talks he makes are worth it. He's turning out to be one of the most popular national commanders the Legion has had in recent years.

The latest scare he gave to a welcoming committee was when one of the engines conked out as he was landing at Columbus, O. Those watching on the ground thought sure he was going to crash.

LEGION COMMANDER COLLINS and plane: 50,000 banquet miles.

But at the last moment he thought to cut in an emergency fuel tank, which did the trick. The engine caught and he circled the field and made a normal landing.

Mechanics discovered that another storm through which he had flown had somehow caved in one gas tank and he had not been able to take on a full load of fuel.

This is the way he looks at such incidents:

"If you're reasonably careful you've got nothing to worry about. And by flying your own plane you can get to more towns faster."

So They Say

Coexistence is a catch phrase of an adopted defeatist assumption that half the people are free and half slaves.—Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent) WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Washington representatives of some of the 30 African and Asian nations invited to a conference at Bandung, Indonesia, April 18-24, are having a hard time trying to calm down American fears that there is some hidden, ulterior motive behind it all.

Since the five Colombo powers that promoted this conference have been vague about their agenda, it has been a natural for wide speculation. These Colombo powers, by the way, must not be confused with the Colombo Plan countries, which include Britain, Canada and the United States in a scheme for technical assistance and economic development for undeveloped countries.

The five Colombo powers are India, Ceylon, Burma, Pakistan and Indonesia. Their prime ministers met first a year ago in the Ceylonese capital to search for a formula to end the fighting in Indo-China.

That effort failed, but the meeting led to plans for the Afro-Asian conference. Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo, premier of Indonesia and her former Washington ambassador, is generally considered father of the conference and his government will be host. How many countries will attend or decline is still unknown.

AFRICAN NATIONS INVITED ARE: Egypt, Libya, Liberia, Gold Coast, Ethiopia, Sudan and the Central African Federation.

From the Middle East: Saudi Arabia, Syria, Iraq, Yemen, Lebanon, Jordan, Iran, Turkey and Afghanistan.

From Asia: North Viet Minh and South Viet Nam, Communist China, Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, Nepal, Japan and the Philippine Islands.

Since the 30 invited countries have a total population of over a billion and a quarter—half the world total—it has been assumed by some observers that this was the first step toward creation of a new power bloc. This is denied. There is said to be no plan to form a permanent group like the Organization of American States or the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, even though such regional alliances are authorized in the United Nations charter.

Since a majority of the races represented are brown, black and yellow, it has been said this was an anti-white movement. This is denied with the statement that many people of India and the Middle Eastern countries are of Caucasian origin and blood.

THE AFRO-ASIAN CONFERENCE has also been considered anti-western. In answer to this, it is pointed out that Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, Thailand, the Philippines and even Japan are closely associated with western alliances.

Because Communist China and Communist Viet Minh have been invited, it had been charged that the Bandung conference would be a mere sounding board for Red propaganda, dominated by Shou En-lai.

This is a particularly annoying charge to representatives of some of the sponsoring nations. The Communist countries will be only two, they say. Definitely anti-Communist countries include Turkey, Pakistan, Iran, Ethiopia and Thailand.

Another charge is that this Afro-Asian conference would be in opposition to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. This SEATO alliance was formed at last year's Manila conference to check the spread of communism in the area. But the Philippines, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, Viet Nam and Pakistan—all SEATO countries—are invited to Bandung. Furthermore, Afro-Asian representatives say they are not interested in any military alliances.

THERE IS MUCH INTEREST IN countries not invited to Bandung—and why? Not included in the invitation list were North and South Korea, Formosa, Malaya, Australia, New Zealand, and Israel.

As a possible precedent, it is pointed out that Formosa was not invited to the Manila conference where SEATO was born. If Israel had been invited it is probable none of the Arab countries would have come.

Malaya, the hosts probably considered too much of a British colony. If there is one thing the Afro-Asian conference can be definitely ticketed—in the face of so many things it is not—that one thing is "anti-colonial." It wants none of its past.

The failure to invite Australia and New Zealand is a little harder to alibi, as they are technically, at least, equal partners in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Inclusion of Japan is a puzzle. Japan invaded all of the Southeast Asian countries and their people still hate Japan. But it is pointed out that Japan, the only industrialized nation of Asia, is a natural market for the surplus raw materials of this whole area.

By this process of elimination it is possible to deduce some of the things the Afro-Asian conference is not. What its more positive aspects are will be considered in the next column.

Reports from the golf courses indicate that a lot of the folks who go to Florida for the winter are cutups.

Tax Credits On Retirement Pay

(Eleventh of 12 articles)

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

There is one more tax break which must be explained before you are ready to decide which tax return to use for reporting your 1954 income. It is called the credit for retirement income and can only be claimed on Form 1040.

The idea behind this new retirement credit is to reduce the taxes for elderly people who retire on income from their own savings and investments so that they receive much the same tax break given to persons who receive social security benefits or other non-taxable pensions or annuities.

Here's how the credit works:

All taxpayers over 65 and taxpayers under 65 who are retired under a public retirement system established by the United States, or a state, territory, possession or political subdivision (except an armed forces retirement system) are allowed a credit against their tax of 20 per cent of their "retirement income."

"Retirement income" is defined as income from pensions, annuities, interest, rents, and dividends. The amount taken into account in any one year may not exceed $1200 for each taxpayer minus the sum of:

1. Exempt social security or Railroad Retirement Act pensions or annuities received;
2. Other tax exempt pensions or annuities received, such as a veterans' pension (but not armed forces retirement pay based on disability resulting from active service); and
3. In the case of a taxpayer under 75, any earned income in 1954 in excess of $900. Earned income means salaries, wages or other compensation for personal services. Once a taxpayer is 75, this third reduction does not apply.

Schedule K of Form 1040 indicates that items 1, 2 and 3 above must be subtracted from your retirement income even though your retirement income is less than $1200. This is a mistake and will not be followed by the Internal Revenue Service.

The Commissioner has advised his field offices to disregard this part of the form whenever the retirement income is less than $1200. The correct way to determine the limitation on retirement income is to subtract items 1, 2 and 3 above from $1200 regardless of the amount of your retirement income.

You then enter this amount on line 5 of Schedule K or your retirement income, whichever is the lesser. For example, suppose you have retirement income (that is, income from pensions, annuities, interest, rents, and dividends) of $1000 in 1954. Suppose you also had income described in items 1, 2 and 3 above of $500 in 1954.

The amount to enter on line 5 of Schedule K is the lesser of $700 ($1200 minus $500, the sum of items 1, 2 and 3) or your retirement income of $1000. Since $700 is the lesser, show that amount in line 5. Do not subtract the $500 from your retirement income of $1000.

A taxpayer is not entitled to the credit unless he has received more than $600 a year earned income in each of any past 10 years, or is such a person's widow or widower.

Even though a joint return is filed, the credit is limited to the retirement income of each spouse. Thus, if the husband received all the "retirement income," he alone would get the credit, but if both husband and wife receive retirement income, both can get the credit, subject to the limitations stated above.

Perhaps the easiest way to see how the retirement credit works is to take a look at Schedule K.

HERE'S HOW MYTHICAL TAXPAYERS would figure retirement income credit. Note that credit cannot exceed tax otherwise due. If tax had been $392 or more, they would get a full $392 credit.

page 4 of Form 1040 printed with this article, which has been filled out to show how a married couple, both with retirement income, claimed the new credit. There is also additional information on page 15 of the official instructions.

At this point, you have all the information needed to choose the tax form to use in reporting your 1954 income.

Here are some tips which will help you.

You may use Form 1040A if:

1. Your gross income is less than $5000, and
2. Your gross income was received in the form of salary, wages, dividends, or interest, and
3. Your gross income from sources other than wages subject to withholding does not exceed $100.

A married couple may make a joint return on Form 1040A if their combined income meets the above test. Married couples whose legal residence is in a community property state may not file separate returns on Form 1040A.

Do Not Use Form 1040A if:

1. You qualify as "head of household" or "surviving spouse,"
2. Your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income,
3. You have any reimbursed expenses, out-of-town travel expenses, transportation expenses related to your work, or expenses as an outside salesman. (See article 4).

4. You have dividend income in excess of the dividend exclusion. (See article 5)

5. You are entitled to the credit for retirement income explained above in this article

You May Use Short Form 1040 if:

1. Your adjusted gross income, item 6, page 1 of Form 1040, is less than $5000. You cannot itemize deductions on the Short Form 1040.

DO NOT Use Short Form 1040 if:

1. Your personal deductions exceed 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income.
2. Long Form 1040 can be used by any taxpayer who itemizes his deductions on page 3. This form must be used whenever the adjusted gross income shown in item 6, page 1, of Form 1040 is $5000 or more.

Those of you using Form 1040A will not have to compute your tax. Just fill in both sides with the required information. The District Director of Internal Revenue will use the tax table printed on the instructions for Form 1040 A to compute your tax and send you a refund or a bill depending on whether too much tax or too little tax was withheld from your pay.

The tax table automatically gives you a $600 credit for each exemption and a deduction of about 10 per cent of your income for such items as contributions, medical expenses and the like.

Those of you using the Short Form 1040 should fill in Pages 1

Public School Bars Political Discussion By Mrs. Roosevelt

ARMONK, N.Y. (AP) — A speech scheduled for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at a public school here has resulted in a charge that it would constitute illegal use of a school for political purposes.

The speech was set for March 4 at the Whipoorwill Public School as part of a Democratic rally, and the subject is "The Importance of Political Activity in the Home Town."

Paul Lehr, Republican councilman, lodged the protest with the Board of Education. Bruce Felton, secretary of the Democratic organization, agreed, and the Democrats now are seeking other facilities large enough to accommodate an audience.

Two bills for changing the opening date of the deer season, a proposal generally supported by Upper Peninsula sportsmen, have been killed in the Legislature. A bill providing an opening on the Saturday nearest Nov. 15 is still pending. The House conservation committee also has killed a bill to boost the fox bounty from $5 to $10, a measure which found support among some sportsmen's clubs in the Upper Peninsula.

Northern pike fishing in Gratiot Lake, Keweenaw County, has been reported good, the largest fish taken there recently being one that came within a few ounces of 20 pounds.

Members of the Keweenaw Sportsmen's Club plan to plant wild rice next spring in Mud Lake and at Seven-Mile Point as a wild-fowl habitat improvement project. The club recently adopted a resolution favoring dredging of the channel at Bete Gris and Lac La Belle.

NMSA Heads Plan Meeting During March

NEGAUNEE — Directors of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association will meet in the municipal court room here at 2 p.m. March 12 with officers of affiliated clubs.

Matters to be acted on include association affairs and pending game and fish bills in the Legislature.

Membership Dues Hike

One of the questions to be discussed will be the possibility of raising association membership dues to meet budget increases. Directors also will take action on legislative bills. They will cast votes to determine which bills will have association support and which bills will be opposed by NMSA.

In other association matters, Michael F. DeFanti, Negaunee, NMSA president, recently urged affiliated clubs to conduct checks on deer yards in their area. "Yarding conditions, particularly during the month of March, should be studied," DeFanti told club officers.

Outdoor Unit In Meeting At Higgins Lake

Members of the Michigan Outdoor Association are holding their annual midwinter meeting this weekend at the Conservation Department's Higgins Lake Training School near Roscommon.

They will inspect deer yards in the vicinity tomorrow. In the evening, the writers will view movies taken in Alberta by a group of Saginaw sportsmen. They also will hear representatives of the American Box Board Company discuss forest management for game and timber.

Five Controversial Issues

During the meeting, association members will be polled on five controversial conservation issues: Should control of the deer herd by the Conservation Department be extended?

Should the fish license law be extended to include sports fishing in the Great Lakes?

Do you favor an increased program of public recreational land acquisitions?

Should the state control submerged lands?

Do you approve "fly fishing only" regulations as a proper tool for trout management?

Caribou Seen Off Superior's North Shore

Regarded as a vanishing species some years ago, the woodland caribou is increasing in numbers in Ontario. There are now more than 7,000 of them in northern Ontario, says Clare E. Mapiadoram, master of lands and forests.

Woodland caribou have been reported near White River and Onamam Lake, just east of Lake Nipigon, and in the McKay Lake area and on Slate Islands off north shore of Lake Superior not far from Schreiber. Hunting of these animals has been prohibited for years.

The woodland caribou found in Ontario is distinct from the barren ground caribou found on the tundra from Labrador to Alaska. Both sexes have slightly flattened antlers. The woodland caribou are brown in summer and grayish-brown in winter, with yellowish white on the neck, belly, feet and rump, including tail. Height at shoulder may be 40 to 60 inches, and they weigh from 200 to 700 pounds.

WIDE REPRESENTATION

There are probably more species of insects on earth than of all other animals combined. About 800,000 species have been catalogued in museums. The number includes some 200,000 beetles.

What Is It?

MARQUETTE — Gus Gutzman, 417 West Crescent Street, Marquette, a jobber, raised his eyebrows when he came across the strange stems pictured above.

He was cutting timber along the Chocoyay River below the Green Garden Hill when he sighted several stems like the ones his son, Billy Gutzman, is shown holding.

Gutzman believes the stems to be elm. He cut quite a bit of elm in that area, and the wood closely resembles elm. But it is not characteristic for American elm to grow in coils. In fact, this is the first time Gutzman has seen anything like this in the woods.

All of the unusual stems were growing in one small "pocket" along the river. In some cases, the stems were coiled around one another uniformly, as in the two pieces Billy is holding with his right hand. In other cases, the stems were entwined around other trees. The photo at right shows the path left on the trunk of a rather large balsam which eventually was killed by the coiling stems.

Some of the stems were smaller than your little finger. Others were about two inches in diameter. In some cases, the stems were entwined as high as 60 or 70 feet up on the trunks of other trees. — (Mining Journal Photos.)

Is Kirtland's Warbler Upper Peninsula Bird?

GWINN — Does North America's rarest warbler nest in the Upper Peninsula?

According to a man who should know, Kirtland's warbler has been seen in the Northern Peninsula during the nesting season. He is Walter E. Hastings who reports having seen and heard a male Kirtland's warbler while fishing on the Escanaba River four or five miles north of Gwinn in jack pine country. He was fishing with R. W. Sauer of Gwinn.

Confined To Michigan

Kirtland's warbler, sometimes called the jack pine warbler, is the only species of bird whose known nesting range is confined to Michigan. In fact, its nesting range is generally believed to be restricted to three downstate counties—Oscoda, Crawford and Roscommon. It winters only in the Bahamas.

Until Hastings' observation was made, the only report of a Kirtland's warbler being found north of its known breeding range was a male collected at Spectacle Reef Lighthouse east of the Straits of Mackinac.

'Perfect Cover'

But Hastings is convinced "that certain areas in the U. P. would be perfect cover for the Kirtland's warbler, and if worked properly, I am sure that it would be found there and would not be too uncommon."

Hastings made his observation of the bird north of Gwinn on June 10, 1948 or 1949 — he is not sure about the year. Since then, there apparently has been no report of the Kirtland's warbler in the Upper Peninsula.

Crawford County Discovery

Hastings is well qualified to speak on the subject of this species. He retired about five years ago as a photographer with the Conservation Department and now lives in Apache Junction, Ariz. During his residence in Michigan he spent much time studying Kirtland's warblers in downstate areas. His observations are incorporated in "Birds of Michigan," a book by Norman A. Wood, a friend of Hastings and the man who discovered the first known nest of Kirtland's warbler. That discovery was made in Crawford County on July 8, 1903. Writings by Wood and J. A. Parmelee represent just about all that is known of the breeding habits of Kirtland's warbler.

The warbler is named for Dr. J. P. Kirtland who discovered the species near Cleveland, Ohio, on May 13, 1851. Years after the discovery it was found that Dr. Samuel Cabot of Boston had captured a male Kirtland's warbler on shipboard near the Bahamas in October, 1841.

Regarding this warbler, L. Nelson Nichols has written: "The bird is a frequenter of high, sandy jack-pine plains; makes its home in jack-pine and scrub oak; nests on the ground; walks gracefully over its feeding grounds, and is equally at home in trees or on the ground."

Some day, perhaps, some observer will be able to corroborate Hastings' report. "If I had the means," and the time," Hastings says, "I surely would go over at least two different areas in the Upper Peninsula where I am almost sure one would find the birds. If Mr. Wood were alive and active, I know that the region would be gone over with a fine-toothed comb to find the Kirtland's warbler."

Wildlife Week Proclaimed By Gov. Williams

Gov. G. Mennen Williams has issued the following proclamation designating March 20-26 as National Wildlife Week:

One of man's greatest pleasures has been to hunt the many forms of wildlife which America has to offer. Equal to this is the pleasure that can be derived from just walking in our forests and watching the activities of these animals.

Michigan has been particularly blessed with an abundance of wildlife. Sadly enough, for many years we never realized the necessity for conserving this great heritage. However, through the comparative recent efforts of our conservation organizations, a great deal of progress has been made in preserving this great natural resource.

In the forefront of this movement, the National Wildlife Federation has done an excellent job. Here in Michigan the United Conservation Clubs have contributed much to this program. Each year these organizations have set aside a National Wildlife Week to promote good conservation practices.

THOMPSON, I. G. Mennen Williams, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim the week of March 20-26, 1955 as

Alger Mink Case Settled; Wrath Of Judge Raised

MUNISING — What started out to be a fraud case stemming out of a mink ranching venture in Alger County turned into a classic case of legal delaying tactics that aroused the caustic ire of a former attorney general, Circuit Judge Eugene F. Black of Port Huron.

Judge Black was assigned to the case by Circuit Judge Richard Nebel of Munising last year, after the case had been in litigation five long years. Before the case was finally settled in Alger County circuit court last week, Judge Black penned an embittered opinion in which he took the legal system to task for permitting such protracted litigation.

$25,000 For Mink Herd

The defendant in the case was Dewey H. McCarty of Peck in Sanilac County. Plaintiffs were 10 residents of the Munising area—Adolph M. Stebler (now residing in Oklahoma), Walter J. Corey, William A. Mazilli, Ernest E. Peterson, Claude L. Bauman, Fred J. Carefull, Glenn W. Baxter, Wal-fred B. Johnson, Kenneth Bakum and Albert L. Tinkham.

The case arose out of incidents which occurred in 1948 and led to the organization of the Superior Fur Farm in Alger County. At that time, McCarty sold the plaintiffs a herd of about 215 mink for a total of $25,000 to form the fur farm. Plaintiffs anted from $1,000 to $4,000 apiece to organize the mink ranch which was located on Stebler's farm. McCarty added a corresponding number of mink so that the farm was stocked with about 430 head of mink. Along with the mink, McCarty also sold the plaintiffs certain equipment, pens and food stocks.

Accused Defendant Of Fraud

A few months thereafter, the plaintiffs began to suspect that something was amiss. They later charged that, although the mink were supposed to be breeding stock, the animals were not reproducing at normal rates, that the females were bearing only one mink apiece, whereas the usual litter numbers three. They also charged that the stock was defective (cull animals), that the food stock was defective and that the pens were defective.

On Aug. 18, 1949, the plaintiffs filed a bill for rescission. They sued for $25,000, alleging fraud on McCarty's part and claiming that he had misrepresented the mink ranching possibilities to them.

On Sept. 12, 1949, the defendant filed a motion to dismiss the case, the first of many delaying maneuvers that were to occur before the case finally was settled five and a half years later. (The motion was denied on March 20, 1950.)

Meanwhile, Stebler, who had been a biologist at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station in Shingleton, lost his position with the Conservation Department as a result of the fraud case, according to Judge Black's opinion. Stebler now is a professor at Oklahoma A&M.

Animals Slaughtered

In January 1950, the plaintiffs were forced to slaughter the mink in an attempt to salvage what they could from their operation. The pelts netted them about $1,300.

Finally, on July 13, 1954, the case went to trial. In the settlement last week, the plaintiffs were awarded a total of $4,000, to be pro-rated among them. In addition, the defendant gave them certain releases—for instance, $2,700 they had been billed for food stock. The defendant also released all claim to equipment and pens.

Judge Black took over the case from Judge Herbert Rannels, Sault Ste. Marie. Attorney for the plaintiffs was George S. Baldwin.

Munising, Defense counsel was McGinn & Fitzharris of Escanaba.

In the opinion Judge Black handed down, he said, in part:

"It is ruled that plaintiffs were possessed, when their bill was filed, of a good and appealing cause of action for rescission, in equity and on account of actionable fraud; that the suit by right and duty of the court should have been brought to issue and tried in the fall of 1949 when the mink were yet alive so that truly equitable disposition of the case be made on the facts then existent; that jurisdiction and duty of the court to adjust all equities of the parties has not been lost on account of the mentioned subsequent events, and that this court would be open to censure if it were to compound its original neglectful somnolence by casting from its doors those who were and still are rightfully entitled to the early decree of equity.

"It may be suggested that this court, as a matter of discretion based on the clean hands doctrine, should send plaintiffs to trial at law 400 miles from the scene of defendant's successful tour of Alger County in 1948, they having destroyed that which should have been preserved for judicial disposition. This would be an argument of force were it not for the fact that plaintiffs in no conceivable way could have saved these mink alive for judicial disposition in this fall of 1954.

Defense Counsel Not Blamed

"The mink sold and transferred by defendant to the Superior Fur Farm were, in 1948, supposed to be breeding stock. They at least must have been a year old at the time. All would have been dead at this late hour, slaughter or no by plaintiffs, even with the most expensive of interim care. Their life expectancy would not wait on a sluggish court.

"This opinion should by no means be interpreted as judicial criticism of defense counsel. As long as courts continue to tolerate the practices of obstructive attrition shown by this record (and such are not unknown in other circuits), just so long will eminent counsel pursue them whenever they are deemed of worth to clients. A lawyer may have no personal respect for a rule of law or a permitted procedural practice. Yet he must continue to utilize and employ it for his client if judges permit or countenance else he is apt to lose that client."

Huron Mountain Club Member Gets Awards Honoring Him As Inventor Of Outboard Motor

Cameron B. Waterman, a member of the Huron Mountain Club in Marquette County, has received numerous awards this year honoring him as the inventor of the outboard motor.

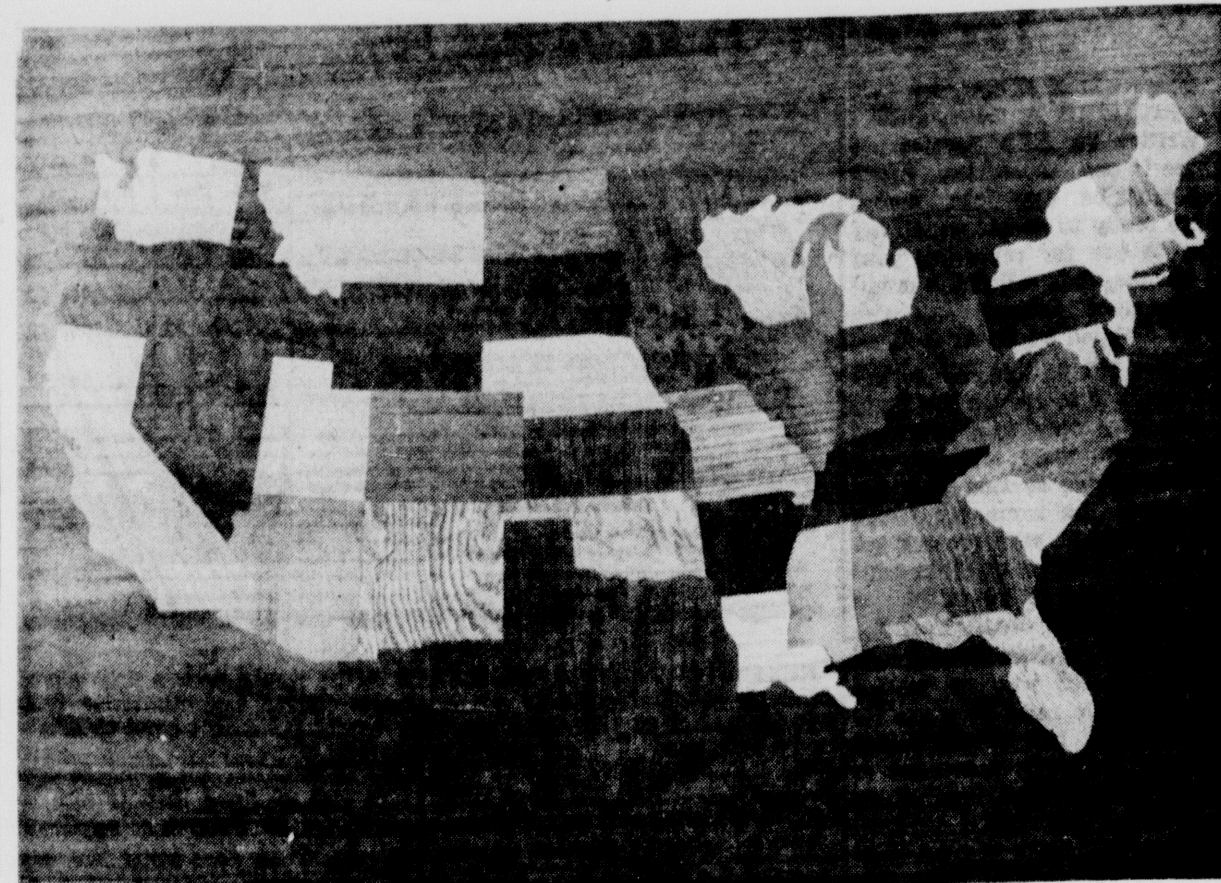

Now a Detroit patent attorney, the 78-year-old Waterman recently received a new electric starting motor and a plaque when he was the guest of manufacturer Carl Kiekhaefer at the National Boat Show in New York.

Re-Bigged Motorcycle Engine

The patent office in Washington shows Waterman to be the inventor of the outboard motor. He is credited with putting together the first outboard motor in 1903 while he was a student at Yale Law School. He simply re-rigged a motorcycle engine and placed it on the back of a rowboat.

When Waterman returned to De-

48 States. 48 Woods

The unusual map pictured above, presented as a gift to the Gannon Lumber Company of Marquette by the Bird's Eye Veneer Company of Escanaba, contains 48 different types of wood—one for each state in the Union. Some of the woods are native to the United States (like the bird's eye maple which represents Michigan and the birch for Wisconsin), others are "exotic" woods (like koa from Hawaii, used in cutting out the boundaries of Illinois, and the Oriental teak, representing Virginia). The wood pieces are inlaid in a "frame" measuring two feet by three feet. —(Mining Journal Photo.)

Interesting Deer Observations Reported At Cusino Enclosure

SHINGLETON — Some interesting observations on deer behavior and deer biology have been turned up here as a sidelight to experimental studies of white-tails confined in a summer range enclosure south of here.

Set up by the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station, the enclosure serves as a natural laboratory for several long-range experiments. Deer are placed within the enclosure each spring and removed each fall. Louis Verme, Cusino biologist, is in charge of studies there.

Strong 'Motherly' Behavior

Incidental to regular controlled experiments conducted within the enclosure, Verme has made close observations of general deer activities inside the fenced area and has come up with some noteworthy preliminary findings.

For instance, Verme observed that does generally displayed strong "motherly" behavior toward their fawns and that the fawns remained attached to their mothers until early winter, even though the young apparently had discontinued nursing.

"Violent Antagonism" "Generally," Verme reported, "white-tailed deer are not considered to be of a gregarious nature. However, this tendency is not unknown. It was not uncommon to see groups of as high as a dozen deer traveling and eating together inside the summer enclosure. Usually there was no evidence of strife or incompatibility, except during late fall when food competition occurred."

One instance of "violent antagonism" between two adult bucks did occur, however. The bucks were placed in the enclosure in late September. Less than a week later, the older and larger buck was dead, apparently from injuries

State Aiming At Increased Wood Output

Michigan is aiming for a high spot in U. S. production of pulpwood, timber and other forest products.

Gradually, a number of steps are being taken to bring the Wolverine state back toward the prominence it held in 1870-90. In those years, Michigan was tops nationally in forest production.

But unlike the early days when the state's forests were stripped and the land left unplanted, the modern approach is designed to give a sustained yield of timber products indefinitely.

The most recent step in this direction was made in the last Conservation Commission meeting when increased reforestation was planned.

Nursery Production Doubled

Prior to this move, production of young trees at the state's three nurseries was about doubled and a new method of forest inventory has given, for the first time, a composite view of state forest needs and potentials.

Fire reduction through the years has also played a vital part toward boosting Michigan back to forest leadership.

At present, about 5,000 acres of state lands are planted each year. A recent state forest inventory, which took into account openings necessary for wildlife, showed 249,000 acres can be planted.

Now Ranks 15th

Under the new plan, tree planting will be increased gradually until 1959, when 20,000 acres of this land will be planted annually. That peak will be continued until the job is done.

Michigan presently is 15th in lumber production. A few years ago, it was down to 19th. A new trend toward increased use of pulpwood appears certain, however, and this will also help the Michigan forest picture.

sustained in combat with the smaller buck. The unusual feature about the incident was that mating rivalry apparently was not a factor in the fighting since there was no indication that the does were ready to breed when the battles occurred. Verme concludes, "the fighting may have been due to territorial antagonism and not to active breeding behavior as stimulated by the does, or it may have been due to physiological changes in the bucks themselves."

Weight Factors

Other observations made inside the enclosure indicated that there was no apparent weight difference at birth between fawns born to poorly nourished does and fawns born to normal does. However, the rate of growth for apparently poorly nourished fawns appeared greater at comparable ages than that of normal fawns.

Generally, single male fawns weighed more than the young in any other category. They were followed in weight by single females, twin males and, finally, twin females, in order of decreasing weight.

'Severe Physiological Drain'

Among many does under dietary stress, considerable fawn mortality occurred at or soon after birth. "The severe physiological drain on does due to pregnancy and lactation is evident from the general inability to regain previous weight and condition during spring, including also those animals which were not suckling fawns due to mortalities," Verme reported.

The biologist emphasized that the enclosure studies are in a preliminary stage and that conclusions reached so far must thus be considered somewhat tentative.

Readers Corner

Calls 'Cat Killer'

Dear Sir:

Listen, Sportsmen!

All who have read the article written by the game specialist, David A. Arnold, listen!

When such obviously incorrect information is printed on the conservation page of The Iron Mountain News, it is time for us sportsmen who know much better to set straight those who would write or believe such a story about "Michigan's Little Lion."

According to this article, a bobcat will not eat venison unless he comes across a deer already starved to death. Don't let Mr. Arnold or anyone else tell you such bunk. I have been trapping, poisoning, hunting bobcats for 33 years, and it is my intimate experience that bobcats do kill deer.

The bobcat is one of Michigan's most vicious killers. He kills wantonly—not only for meat, but mainly for the love of killing.

I have recent proof of a bobcat killing three deer in one week last March. Will one bobcat eat 400 pounds of deer meat in one week? No!

When I worked for the state as state trapper, I furnished proof, also, that they kill beaver, rabbits, partridge or any and all types of Michigan game, as well.

Listen again, Sportsmen! Mr. Arnold stated that the bobcat is bothered in the U. P. by a $5 bounty. Do all you can to keep that bounty on the head of "Michigan's Little Lion." The fewer bobcats that roam our swamps, the more game we will have on our family table.

Yours for better hunting and more game,

JACK BENNETT

(Nowhere in the article by Mr. Arnold, referred to above, did Mr. Arnold state that "a bobcat will not eat venison unless he comes across a deer already starved to death."

Meditations for LENT

By DR. J. CARTER SWAIM
Dept. of English Bible,
National Council of Churches
Written for NEA Service
Lent is a season of the Christian year which is now 40 days in duration. Its length has not always been 40 days.

In the parable of the man who did not dress for the occasion, Jesus made it clear that proper participation in great events requires preparation. A man came to a wedding without bothering to change his clothes. The insulted host said: "Friend, how did you get in here without a wedding garment?" (Matthew 22:12 RSV), and threw him out.

So it is with all great spiritual experiences; we get the most out of them only if we come properly prepared. The Day of Resurrection is a high point in the year, yet no one should approach Easter without making ready.

In the second century the pre-Easter fast lasted only one or two days. By the third century, the Christians in Alexandria were fasting for a week, others for two weeks. By the fourth century, the fasting period was generally observed.

At the time of the Reformation, many Christians abandoned the practice as being associated with evils against which they were in revolt. The twentieth century has seen its widespread acceptance by even the most extreme of Protestant communions.

The 40-day period is now regarded as commemorating Jesus' Temptation experience. Luke 4:1, 2, (RSV) tells us that after his baptism:

"Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan, and was led by the Spirit for 40 days in the wilderness."

This completes the "4-H Club Girl," which has been the sideline of the club's winter project.

As part of the recreation, songs were sung by the group and Yvonne Germaine and Darlene LaPalm sang "Open Up Your Heart And Let The Sunshine In."

The next meeting will be held Monday night at the usual time.

Ask Return Of
Questionnaires

Only about one hundred of the 500-odd Business Survey Questionnaires sent into local homes last week through school pupils have been filled out and returned, according to Supt. Wallace Cameron.

The survey is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, local schools and the University of Michigan, in order to learn what local residents think of the goods and service offered them by local merchants to obtain further knowledge of the buying habits of local residents.

About 20 minutes is all that is required to fill out the questionnaire. It does not have to be signed so there is no way in which anyone can know who filled out which questionnaire.

After the questionnaires have been returned they are forwarded to Business Research Bureau of the University Extension service for analyzing and later a representative of the Extension service will come to Gladstone to present the analysis before local business men.

The survey proves of value if information derived is used to advantage.

Briefly Told

Recover Stolen Truck—A pickup truck owned by David Johnson of Bark River Rte 2, stolen sometime Wednesday night, was recovered at 2 p. m. yesterday on M-69 by Michigan State Police and sheriff's officers. The abandoned vehicle was undamaged.

Investigate Gas Thefts—Michigan State Police of the Gladstone post are investigating the reported theft of gasoline from equipment being used in the exploration for iron ore for the Cleveland Cliff Company. The site is northeast of Perkins on the Friday Road.

INSURANCE

Royer Garage Is Damaged By Fire

Fire of undetermined origin last night caused extensive damage to a garage at the Clarence Royer residence, 322 Wisconsin Ave. Royer estimated the damage to the garage and to a one-ton pick-up truck inside it at between $800 and $1,000.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor at about 11 p. m. and was reported to Royer, who called the fire department. Royer had parked the car in the garage about one hour before the fire was discovered.

Former Manistique
Resident Married
In Baraboo, Wis.

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Patricia Arlene Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Nelson, of Baraboo, Wis., and Eugene L. Hageman. The Nelsons are former Manistique residents and Mr. Nelson was the assistant manager of the Penney Store here. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Vivian Auvinen and a granddaughter of Mrs. Gust Anderson, Manistique Heights.

An account of the wedding as appeared in a Beaver Dam newspaper follows:

Miss Patricia Arlene Nelson descended the flower-decked winding stairway into the living room of her parents' home on Saturday, Feb. 19, for the ceremony in which she became the bride of Eugene L. Hageman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Nelson, Baraboo, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hageman, Lodi.

The ceremony, performed by the Rev. Herbert Kirchner of St. John's Lutheran Church at 4 p. m., took place in front of the fireplace, which was decorated with lighted tapers and white flowers.

For the simple double ring ceremony, the bride wore a cocktail-length gown of white lace over salmon taffeta. The dress had a scoop neckline, bracelet sleeves, and a full skirt. She wore a coronet of white flowers and carried stephanotis and an orchid. Her father gave her in marriage.

Mrs. Glenn R. Quale was her sister's matron of honor, in a cocktail length dress of blue taffeta, with a long torso, draped neckline, and bouffant skirt. Her bouquet and tiara were of salmon colored flowers.

Douglas Hageman, Lodi, served as his brother's best man.

A dinner, immediately after the ceremony, was served in the Rose room of the Warren hotel.

The couple left on a wedding trip, and on their return about March 1, will be at home at 110 Prospect St., Beaver Dam.

The bride was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, where she was a member of Delta Gamma, Rho Chi and Kappa Epsilon. She is now a pharmacist at the Langham Drug Store in Beaver Dam. The bridegroom, a graduate of Marquette University and member of Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity, is associated with the Beaver Dam Wholesale Co. He served with the armed forces in the Canal Zone.

Rites Saturday
For Mrs. Secrist

Mrs. Mary Secrist, a resident of Manistique for the past 18 years, died late Wednesday night at the residence of Mrs. William Mueller Sr., 185 N. Cedar St., with whom she made her home. She had long suffered from a heart ailment and death came while she slept.

Mrs. Secrist was born in Canada on Sept. 2, 1886 and was for many years a resident of Cranston, Wis., before coming here, during their residence here, for several years, she and her husband, the late Alex Secrist, conducted a convalescent home on North Cedar Street. Mr. Secrist died in 1946.

Mrs. Secrist was a member of St. Francis de Sales Catholic church.

Surviving her are four daughters, Mrs. Melvin Kwapi, Plymouth, Wis.; Mrs. O. LaRonge, Chippewa Falls, Wis.; Mrs. Larry Johns, Pontiac, Mich.; and Mrs. Howard Schnell, Green Bay, Wis. There are also five grandchildren.

The body was prepared for burial at the Kafauver & Jackson Funeral Home. The rosary will be recited there at 8:30 Friday evening. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday at the St. Francis de Sales Church, with the Rev. Fr. F. M. Scherlinger conducting the funeral mass. The body will be taken to Cranston, Wis., for burial in the Union Cemetery in that village.

Otmer Schuster
Heads Annual Drive
For Cancer Funds

Otmer J. Schuster will head activities of the annual cancer drive which will be conducted during the month of April, according to announcement Thursday.

This year's goal is $1,085, slightly less than that of last year's amount, which was readily subscribed. This drive, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society has always been well understood and supported since these activities began about ten years ago and Schuster expressed hope that this good support will continue.

Schuster succeeds Carl Carlson who headed the campaign last year. Donald McPhail will serve as vice chairman.

Full details of the campaign and the committees will be released shortly before the campaign opens.

Two Escape Injury
When Car Careens
On Slippery Paving

A car driven by Mrs. Merle Helen Cousineau, of Thompson, after hitting icy paving on Highway US-2 at the city limits west of town got out of control and crashed into the ditch. Damage to the car, estimated at about $700 resulted.

With Mrs. Cousineau at the time was her five-year-old son. Both of them escaped injury.

State police investigated the mishap which occurred shortly before noon Thursday.

Numerous Farm Problems Are Outlined At Rock Meeting

Many Experts Heard By Group

ROCK—A very interesting and informative meeting was held at the Clubhouse in Rock on Monday afternoon for the benefit of farm families. Practically every subject pertaining to rural families was covered, illustrating how net income may be increased on the farm by successful farm operations and family living.

R. T. Hartwig, agricultural economist, showed colored slides to illustrate trends in farm prices. He said the number of farms has decreased but the production has increased because of improved methods and planning.

Mr. Hartwig also explained that milk in this locality is used mostly for making cheese. He said 43 per cent went for cheese, 20 per cent toward fluid milk, 20 per cent toward condensed milk and ice cream, and 17 per cent toward making butter. He then illustrated how current prices are established.

Barley Needs Good

William Cargo, crop and soil specialist, gave pointers on obtaining better yield in oats by planting early, using good fertilizer and testing seed, using clean plump seed, etc. Barley needs very rich soil. Weeds should be controlled by spraying and a farmer should see that he does not lose too much grain in the harvesting process.

He also spoke on soil management, necessity of testing soil, liming when necessary, using green manure crops, manure from the barnyard and commercial fertilizer. Do not cultivate too closely or too deeply around plants, drain when necessary and do not broadcast fertilizer.

Jack Little, dairy specialist, spoke on cattle. He proved that coarsely ground oats are just as good and better feed for dairy cows than a mixture of grains. Green silage should be cut beginning about June 20th and hay should be made about a week later in order to obtain the best hay.

He showed colored slides and spoke on mastitis in dairy cattle. When buying cows, one should be very careful so as not to purchase infected cattle. Bruises, high door sills, stepping on teats and small stalls are other causes of mastitis. He said it was a very good and necessary practice for farmers to use strip cups at least once a day in order to detect early symptoms of the disease, so that the animal may be treated and prevented from infecting others. He illustrated how to make home made strip cups, resulting in a great saving.

Production of Eggs

Floyd Hicks, district horticulture and poultry agent, spoke on producing more and better quality eggs by gathering them at least three times a day, cooling them, preferably on racks and delivering at least twice a week for sale. He said eggs are also sold in cartons to bakeries and food establishments. Egg consumption has increased during the past years until now it averages about 400 eggs per person per year in the United States.

Mr. Hicks pointed out that the strawberry industry is also rapidly becoming popular in the Upper Peninsula.

He spoke on weed and insect control, making it possible for a farmer to add a thousand dollars a year to his income by raising an acre of strawberries. He named new and old varieties of vegetables and fruits, adding that the fruit industry was also on the upswing in this part of Michigan.

Roy Skog, forestry agent, showed colored slides and informed the group about the many ways a farmer may add to his income by forest products which are found on most farms. On the average, each farmer has about two forties of timber on his farm. He may increase his income by selling pulp or posts, by making maple syrup if he has maple trees, by selling Christmas trees and boughs, and by selling or using home grown lumber to build on the farm.

Christmas Bonus

A forty of spruce and balsam should produce 20 cords of pulp every year with careful cutting, which would add about $400 to the annual income, plus Christmas trees and boughs. Balsam should not be cut unless one can get two sticks from it, and spruce should be cut only when three sticks are available from a tree. In 15-20 years he can go back to the same patch and cut again.

Slides were shown on making maple syrup. Early runs produce the best syrup. This work also comes at a slack time of the year when the farmer may do his own work and increase to his income because of not having to hire outside help.

Planting Christmas trees on farm land not suited for farming is looking ahead. Stony and hilly land which is usually a waste, may bring in about $800 annually if a 1000 trees are planted on an acre each year on a ten acre plot of land. In ten years the farmer may begin harvesting his crop.

Scots pine make very good Christmas trees but very poor timber. Douglas fir is becoming the favorite, but persons buying seed should make sure they don't get the seed from west of the Rockies as it won't stand our winters. Trees or seed obtained from eastern Montana is the safest.

To grow good trees the farmer must keep fire and cattle out of the woodlot. For second growth of maple, cut out the poor and crooked trees for chemical wood. Trees over 18 inches in diameter should be cut as they do not grow after that. The fastest growing period is when the tree is from 10-18 inches in diameter.

Miss Tervonen Talks

Miss Ingrid Tervonen, home economics extension leader spoke on family planning when it comes to the expenditures. Children should be included in the family planning. The biggest and first planning, for expenses seems to be item for expenses include food. Other expenses include clothing, equipment, remodeling, medical care and family recreation. She pointed out that recreation need not cost a great deal in cash if the family gets together and plans their fun.

Guests at the meeting were Fred Bernhardt, Delta county 4-H leader, Mel Nyquist and Mrs. Sayen, extension leaders from Marquette.

Joe Heirman, Delta County agricultural agent, was in charge of the meeting. He summarized the day's discussions by adding that the extension leaders are glad and willing to help anyone who will indicate he needs help of any kind. They should take advantage of the free service when in doubt about seed, fertilizer, feed, poultry, trees, farm programs, canning, freezing, and many other things. Free booklets may be obtained, aside from the ones at the meeting, at the office.

The attendance was good. Some farmers coming as far as from Watson. It is surprising how farm folks don't take advantage of this free service. Mr. Heirman emphasized that planning was very necessary in order to increase net profits and spending more where it does the most good.

He also announced that there is a farm program every week on Friday, 12:30 noon from the TV station in Marquette which is sponsored by the Michigan State College of Education and extension service, which should be of interest to farm families.

Loose Circus Leopard Hides Out In Florida

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla.—If an escaped African leopard is still in this area, she hasn't left any signs since Sunday. But circus owner William Morris hasn't given up hope of recapturing the $400 animal.

The leopard got loose Jan. 28 in a sparsely settled area 10 miles south of here where the Kelly-Morris circus is in winter quarters.

Morris says he believes the animal has remained in the vicinity, sometimes visiting the grounds at night to get meat left out for her. But she has eluded all traps.

"She won't hurt a human being," he said, adding that his offer of $100 to anyone who brings the animal in still stands.

Nearly 2 Million Acres Under Soil Saving Plan

Three thousand nine hundred seventeen farms joined the battle against erosion and soil depletion during 1954 by joining a soil conservation district and initiating some needed conservation practices it is revealed in the annual progress report of the Soil Conservation Service.

The additional membership brought the total number of co-operators in 72 soil conservation districts to 26,477. They farm 3,314,677 acres, or 19.4 per cent of all farmland in the area, according to the annual report of the Michigan State Office of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Of the 26,477 farmers, a total of 15,787 have developed conservation plans and rotations assisted by S.C.S. technicians to provide the maximum amount of proper cropping while maintaining and improving the land and preventing soil erosion and depletion. A total of 11.5 per cent of all farmland in the area, or 1,965,334 acres, is now worked within the bounds of conservation plans.

In the Delta County Soil Conservation District almost 8,000 acres were brought into the District for the first time, reports Irwin Ten Haken, Soil Conservation Service technician. This brings to 165 the total cooperating farmers in the district. Edwin Bergman, Bark River, serves as chairman of the local district.

Soil Conservation Service technicians servicing the districts in Michigan worked with district co-operators during the year to bring about 12,711 acres of pasture planting, 18,875 acres of tree planting, 2,490 acres of contour farming, 11,223 acres of strip cropping, and 15,048 acres of cover crops. Some 35,451 acres went under conservation crop rotations, and another 369 acres of vineyards and orchards were planted on the contour.

Biggest demand on the services of technicians was for drainage advice to make possible a conservation plan. District co-operators reclaimed 24,419 acres from excess water conditions and make them suitable for farming.

To drain the 24,449 acres, farmers dug 1,042 miles of open ditch. If these miles were all in one ditch, they would reach from Lansing, Michigan to Tallahassee, Florida. Nine hundred fifty miles of tile drains were laid. In 1953, farmers constructed 826 miles of tile drains compared to 950 during the past 12 months. District co-operators spent 3/4 million dollars on tile drainage alone.

Almost one-third, exactly 30.1 per cent, of all farmland in Soil Conservation Districts has been surveyed by S.C.S. mappers for soil types, erosion and slope.

This Is The "Purina" Calf We're Giving To The 4-H Clubs

PURINA NURSING CHOW

A full ration for your little calf. The Purina Creamery has donated this calf to the 4-H Clubs.

She's Just A Month Old, But Look At Her Grow The Purina Way!

1st week, 114 lbs.; gained 8 lbs.
2nd week, 124 lbs.; gained 10 lbs.
3rd week, 135 lbs.; gained 11 lbs.
4th week, 148 lbs.; gained 13 lbs.

This purebred Holstein is getting Purina Nursing Chow. A 25 lb. bag will last 30 days. In addition, she gets all the Purina Calf Startena she wants. She's really thriving! We purchased this calf from Clarence Sundquist, and will furnish all the feed for four months. A month from now, a 4-H Club member will take the calf home. In May it will be on a televised Calf Show at Green Bay, and later auctioned off. All proceeds will go to the Delta county 4-H Clubs.

Motorists Demand License No. 1

EASTMAN, Ga. (AP)—A perennial headache has come from multiple demands for municipal auto tag No. 1.

City Councilman Hoke S. Wynne "tricked" at the problem with a resolution, which was adopted unanimously, to sell 25 tags with No. 1 on them for 1955.

"And if this doesn't fill the needs this year, we can get more next time," Wynne said.

Limping Goose

by Frank Gruber
COPYRIGHT 1954 BY FRANK GRUBER. DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Johnny dug the handful of pennies and dimes from his pocket. "This!" He put the coins on the table beside his chair. "She wanted the pennies and dimes so badly, I bought her $6 worth. Pennies are pennies to her, and dimes, dimes."

Sutton looked at his uncle. "A bunch of old-fashioned Indian head pennies — and dimes and quarters. I thought —"

"That there was a message in the bank? That's the message," Johnny indicated the heap of coins.

Sutton looked at the coins, perplexed. "One of your jokes, Fletcher?"

"No joke."

Hertha Colson got up and came over. She looked at the coins. "I never saw these, but Jess told me once about the bank he had as a boy." She looked at Carmichael. "You gave it to him?"

Carmichael nodded quietly. "He was very fond of the bank."

"Can I have these?" Hertha asked a note of wistfulness in her voice. "It's — it might be a kind of remembrance."

"There's some things I want to say first," Johnny said, "then I don't care who takes the coins. Mr. Carmichael, Miss Colson, some of this is going to be rather painful."

"Go ahead, Fletcher," said Carmichael gruffly.

"You all know about Alice Cummings. Jess was infatuated with her. So much so that he gave her one of his boyhood treasures and confided in her. Up to a point. He told Alice Cummings that if anything happened to him, to give the limping goose bank to his father. It would tell him who had killed him."

"I don't understand that," Hertha said, puzzled. "It — it sounds as if he expected to be killed."

"He did."

"I stumbled into this thing," Johnny went on. "A bill collector came to my hotel and one thing led to another and he defied me to collect a long-overdue bill against Alice Cummings. Nothing would have happened — that is, I would not have gotten involved in this myself — if I hadn't taken a short cut to finding Alice Cummings. I might add that with interest, the amount still due was $74."

"I nailed her for that but she only had $57 in her purse at the time. I held out for the other $17 and then the phone rang and Jess Carmichael was announced. She wanted to get me out in the worst way and without stopping to think she gave me the limping goose bank to make up the difference," Johnny paused. "Cummings and Jess quarreled and she went out, leaving him in her apartment."

"That's what she says," Hertha put in spitefully.

"I think she told the truth. Somebody else came in — somebody who knew that Jess was there. That's the person who killed him."

"Fletcher," Carmichael asked soberly, "do you know who that person is?"

"Mr. Carmichael," Johnny said, "this morning when I was here talking to Mr. Sutton and you were in the other room listening, he said that you started out in life as a telegraph operator. Was that true?"

"Why, yes, I was the station agent and telegraph operator at a little town in Ohio."

"Can you still read the Morse code?"

"Once you learn that you never forget it. I might not be able to send a message any more, but I could still read one unless it was in International code."

"Just a moment, then."

Johnny stepped to the table and began sorting out the quarters, dimes and pennies. He lined them up, according to the date, beginning with the 1860 penny, continuing down to the last 1939 coin.

The others in the room watched him. When Johnny was nearly through, James Sutton suddenly laughed. "You're a character, Fletcher. You spring your childish games on us and we're hypnotized. We listen to you and we watch you." He chuckled. "Do you know, Uncle Jess, that our friend Fletcher here last night hired a limousine to take him out to your home and that he charged the hire to his room at the Barbizon-Waldorf Hotel here? ... and he happens to be living at the Forty-Fifth Street Hotel."

"I've been to his room," said Carmichael.

Johnny straightened from arranging the coins. "Read it, Mr. Carmichael. Read it. It's the message your son wanted you to read."

"I taught Jess the Morse code when he was eight years old," said Carmichael. He looked at the rows of coins spread out on the table. "I don't understand, Fletcher."

"The pennies are the dots, the dimes the dashes and the quarters the spaces between words. Read it, Mr. Carmichael."

Carmichael gave a start. His eyes darted to the coins. "If Jess is killed," he read slowly. Then he gave a violent start.

"One of Fletcher's tricks," cried James Sutton hoarsely.

"Is it, Sutton?" Johnny demanded. "Does the message give his name, Mr. Carmichael?"

Carmichael continued dully. "Jim Sutton did it. He" — he hesitated — "he killed L. Smithson."

"That's a lie!" yelled Sutton. "Lester isn't dead. He — he phoned me today from Idaho."

"Did he?" Johnny shot at him. (To Be Concluded)

Six Months Silence Prescribed For Judge

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Until sometime in 1955 deaf mutes might go well to arrange to have their criminal court cases heard by Judge Samuel A. Weiss. Weiss has a growth on his vocal chords. His doctors prescribed 6 months of silence.

Weiss said he would write his opinions, let someone else read them and that he would communicate with attorneys via the sign language.

Remainder of the Holy Name lineup will have Arnold Henriksen and Denis McGinn at forwards, Mike Venne and Capt. Jim Greenwood at guards.

Also available for duty will be Gary Hirn, John Vadnais, Jim

Weber, Bill Lancour, and Cliff O'Donnell.

The Saturday night game at Holy Name will start at 8:30 with a preliminary between Bee teams at 7.

Seniors on the Holy Name squad are Lancour, Greenwood and Weber.

Favor Michigan In Track Meet

EAST LANSING (AP)—The University of Michigan is the heavy favorite to run away with the team title at the Big Ten Indoor Track and Field Meet March 4 and 5 at Michigan State College.

The Wolverines have power in individual stars this season plus great squad depth.

Illinois, the defending champion, is expected to furnish the best competition. Iowa, Indiana and Michigan State should finish behind the leaders.

There will be 39 individual place winners and four champions returning from last year's field.

Karl Schladehan, MSC track coach and meet director, said a check of performances and the record books indicate that at least nine Big Ten records and several American marks are likely to be broken.

Schladehan said new conference marks are possible in the high jump, mile run, 70-yard high and low hurdles and the 300, 440, 600, 800 and 1,000 yard runs.

New American indoor times are a likelihood, he said, in the quarter mile and both hurdles events. Preliminaries of the 45th indoor classic will be run off Friday night, March 4, at 7 p.m. The finals will start at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Swim Powers To Clash Saturday

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The two swimming powers of the Midwest—and probably of the nation—will be "on the offensive" Saturday. It's a tossup which will win.

Ohio State's Coach Mike Peppe says Michigan will win, and Michigan Coach Gus Stager says that means, "Mike has something up his sleeve. I wish you could tell which team will win."

One thing is certain: the dual meet in the Michigan pool will be a preview of the Big Ten (March 3-5) and the NCAA meet (March 24-26).

Stager indicated a team victory might hinge on the 200-yard medley relay and the 400-yard freestyle relay. Neither team has used their best men in these events this season.

Michigan holds the best competitive teams in both, based on a Big Ten rundown released this week.

Stager says the breaststroke and diving events will be a tossup and the meet might follow the same pattern. Whoever wins the meet, the records will take a real beating.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

Keith Hindes, former Rapid River cage coach, is going great guns as mentor of the Tonopah, Nev., High School quint. The Tonopah team is called phenomenal, unbeatable and fantastic in newspaper stories from Nevada cities and is regarded as one of the top prep quints in the state. Last season Hindes guided the Rapid River Rockets to the Class D district title and into the regional finals.

And one of Hindes' star players, Waldon Johnson, is also going strong at Northland College in Ashland, Wis. Northland lost to Marquette Northern last Friday night, 119-81, but it was no fault of Johnson as the ex-Rocket scoring ace fired 35 points through the hoops for the losers. Martin Becker of Gladstone and George Anderson of Rapid River are also on the Northland squad.

Tony Orzel crashed a hefty 652 series for Skinny's Bar in City League play this week. Tony rolled games of 230, 218 and 204 and carries a 179 average in the wheel, tying him with Bob Holmes for the top spot in the averages.

Doug Peterson, former Escanaba Hawks player who skates for the Marquette Sentinels this season, suffered an ankle injury in a recent NMO League game and may be on the sidelines for a while. Peterson, rugged defenseman, has been one of Marquette's best players this season.

Ironwood will have a new basketball coach next season. John Krzmarich, who tutored the Red Devils to Michigan-Wisconsin Conference titles the past two years, resigned this week. His Ironwood team this season won only two games while losing 13.

Roman Yatchak, of Wakefield, the Upper Peninsula Football Coach of the Year last fall, will serve on the annual football coaching clinic to be held at Michigan State College this spring along with Lynn Waldorf of California and Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz.

Demaret Is Surprise Leader At Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Jimmy Demaret, who has broken par only six times in 25 rounds in the eight-year-old Houston Open, was the surprising leader today as the second round began in the winter tour's richest tournament.

Demaret took four strokes off par on the back nine Thursday to post a 6-under 66.

The 66 left Demaret one stroke ahead of Bill Trimbley of Dallas. Tied at 68 were Ed Furgol, Jack Burke Jr., who works with Demaret at Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., and Wesley Ellis, young Riverside, N. J., pro making his first swing of the winter tour.

MARQUETTE—That old artisan of the hickory sticks, Tony Bukovich, fashioned the "hat trick" and brother Joe scored the tie-breaking goal as Portage Lake defeated Marquette's Sentinels, 4-3, before 1,943 in the Palestra last night.

Tony Bukovich scored one goal in each period. Joe Bukovich's score, at 16:51 of the final period, came when Marquette was playing two men short because of penalties.

The defeat left the Sentinels anchored in a cellar deadlock with Calumet in the Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League. Each has two games left in their attempt to gain a post-season playoff series berth.

The win moved Portage Lake into sole possession of second place in the standings, ahead of the Escanaba Hawks, with 22 points. Escanaba, best to Marquette Sunday afternoon, has 20.

Connecticut Accepts Invitation To NIT

By The Associated Press
Connecticut, with a record of 20 victories and 3 defeats this season, accepted an invitation Thursday to play in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden March 12-19.

LaFayette also accepted a bid and became the 10th entry in a 12-team field.

Memphis State, with a 17 - 3 record, got an invitation to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. tournaments, as an "at large" team in the first round eliminations at Lexington, Ky., March 8.

Memphis State will join a field including Penn State, Marquette, and the yet unnamed Mid-American Conference champion.

Emeralds, Braves Have 11 Seniors On Squads

Five Emeralds will be playing their final home game of the season for Coach Rudie Brandstrom. They are Bob Hastings, Bill Holm, Bob Corson, Ken Dixon and Don Anderson. All except Anderson will be in the starting lineup and Anderson is a front-line reserve at a guard position.

Coach Cappy Keil of Gladstone will start five of his six seniors tonight. John Quinn will be at center with Roger Carlson and Jack Beach at forwards, Larry Feldt and Norm Butler at guards. J. C. Miller, the other senior on the squad, is the No. 1 reserve and will likely see early action. Tom Brewer, another senior, suffered a recurrence of a football knee injury and is not available.

The game is a critical one for the Braves. If they win tonight they will be undisputed champions of the GL conference, adding the cage crown to the football championship they won last fall.

If Gladstone does not get by Manistique, Negaunee could move into the top spot by beating Munising tonight. If both Gladstone and Negaunee lose, the Braves would still win the championship.

After Gladstone tonight, the Emeralds will close out their season at Stephenson Saturday night.

Hockey Sidelights

Off the cuff: Prior to the loss to Portage Lake after a two-week layoff because of the Escanaba ice show, the Hawks had the best sustained record of any team in the NMO league. Only one loss in 11 games at that stage is at least as good a mark as any team has had in the circuit in many seasons. The Marquette-Escanaba clash here Sunday, in addition to being the renewal of a keen rivalry, may prove to be the key game in the battle for second place in the league.

And certainly it will find the Marquette Sentinels battling with their backs to the wall in an effort to escape the cellar.

The Escanaba six will go all out for a win to wind up in second place. Why? Well, the Hawks would rather tangle with either Portage Lake or Calumet in the semifinals and save Canadian Soo for the finals. If they wind up in third place, they would tangle with the rugged Soo sextet in the semifinals. Escanaba has gone to the finals the last two seasons. Last year, it went all the way.

Joe Nogalo, rated the top defenseman in the league, has been granted a leave of absence from his job at Algoma Steel in Soo, Ont., in order to finish the season with Escanaba. Steve Butorac and Tony Mancini have returned to the Soo but are expected to be here for the important clash with Marquette and for as many playoff games as possible.

Escanaba's objective now is to regain the playing performance peak it had before the forced layoff because of the ice show.

You have to admire the Hawks' spirit. Faced with the prospect of very little split money this year, they still went to Stambaugh last Saturday night at their own expense to play Ben Artwisch's Red Wings and all proceeds from the game went to the Stambaugh team. It was a nice gesture on Escanaba's part to show its appreciation to Ben and to Stambaugh for Artwisch's fine service with the Hawks through five rugged seasons in the NMO league.

Considering that Portage is on the upswing and Esby a two-week layoff, Portage's win last Tuesday is not surprising. Tony Bukovich's boys had just punted Calumet, 11-3, and they kept rolling to beat Escanaba by the same margin. They had it that night. Beni Cano, burly Soo defenseman, used to play for the Soo Greyhounds.

Joe "Bucko" Ricci's accomplishment in the two-point 4-4 tie with Canadian Soo was a big one. He scored the first and the last goal that night. The Hawks finally won four points from the Soo, but it took two games to do it. Portage and Marquette haven't been able to do a thing with the Soo.

So chalk up some credit for your Hawks. Soo has had only 27 goals scored against it. Escanaba has scored 11 of them.

The Hawks have been going all out all season. How about the fans going all out for them these last two home games, Marquette here Sunday and Portage Lake here Tuesday, March 1, and in the playoffs? Tickets for both games are now on sale. Whether Escanaba has senior hockey next winter depends on how well fans support the team in the short time remaining this winter.

Iowa Eyes Share Of First Place In Big 10 Standings

IOWA CITY, Iowa (P) — Ron Kramer is only a Michigan sophomore but he has earned a large measure of greatness by Iowa athletic standards.

Last October the 210 pound Kramer, as an end, caught a 29-yard touchdown pass and kicked the deciding extra points as the Wolverines upset Iowa, 14-13 in football.

Saturday afternoon the Iowa basketball team will get a look at him.

Could Share First

A share of first place in the Big Ten Conference rests on the outcome. A half-game out of first now, an Iowa victory would put the Hawkeyes even with Minnesota at 10-2 going into their title game at Minneapolis Monday night.

Sylvia Wene Shoots For 2nd Keg Crown

DETROIT (P) — Sylvia Wene of Philadelphia shoots for her second consecutive major bowling title Saturday and Sunday in the National Women's Doubles tournament.

Miss Wene, who ended Marion Ladewig's five-year reign as national singles champion last month will team with Mary Cappe in an effort to take the doubles crown.

They are one of 48 pairs who will compete for a prize fund of $2,700. The winning duo will get $500.

The defending champions are Marge Skelton and Pat Dryer of Indianapolis.

Meyer Not Happy With Mound Chore

TAMPA, Fla. (P) — Russ Meyer, unhappy with his 1954 status as a "spot pitcher," said today he will insist on getting a regular starting turn on the mound for the Brooklyn Dodgers next season.

Marquette Wins 21st Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Marquette's Warriors, No. 5 in this week's Associated Press poll, collared their 21st consecutive basketball victory Thursday night by defeating Notre Dame 84-74.

Marquette has the season's longest winning streak in hand after dropping its opener to Michigan State.

Notre Dame had a 37-25 lead at the half and was holding on for a 49-49 tie before Don Walczyk sank two free throws to put the Warriors out front to stay with 11 minutes to go.

Walczyk was high with 27 points. Maryland and Georgetown got involved in a double-overtime scrap, finally won by the Terps 57-49 as Georgetown managed only a single point in the second extra period.

Furman, the nation's top scoring team, sank 47 field goals—seven more than Maryland and Georgetown combined—while clobbering Clemson 124-87 in its final regular season game.

Darrell Floyd, leading major college scorer, had 56 points as the Paladins went over the 100 mark for the 12th time in 26 games. They ended with a 17-9 record.

Defenseman Harvey Sets Hockey Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens defenseman set a record for assists in the National Hockey League Thursday night. He got his 40th assist of the season as the Canadiens moved back into first place alone with a 1-1 tie against Toronto.

The deadlock gave Montreal a one-point edge over Detroit in the standings.

College Hockey Champ To Get McNaughton Cup

HOUGHTON (P) — The MacNaughton Cup, an imposing 41-year-old trophy which is larger than the famed Stanley Cup, will be awarded annually to the winner of the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League.

The historical trophy—standing 31 inches high—has been associated with amateur hockey in the United States since 1914. It was first awarded to the champions of the American Amateur Hockey Assn.

This is the first year it will be given to the champion of the WIHL, whose members include Colorado College, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Denver, Michigan Tech and Michigan State.

The trophy has been donated by the Calumet Division of Calumet & Hecla, Inc., a copper mining company in Houghton.

night. Although Michigan has had only average success in the conference — four triumphs in 10 starts — Iowa cannot afford to think past this game.

It is the Hawkeyes' last home game of the season and their third appearance on the Big Ten's basketball television series (CBS). Game time is 2 p.m. (CST).

Kramer, a 6 foot 3 center, ranks eighth in conference scoring with a 19.3 average. Among Big Ten centers only Indiana's Don Schlundt outscores him. Besides Kramer, Paul Groffsky, Don Eaddy and Tom Jorgenson all have scored more than 100 points in conference games.

Scoring Balance Too

Iowa has that scoring balance too. Sharn Scheuerman and Deacon Davis are tied for first in the marksmanship average in the conference making .486 per cent of their shots.

Three other conference games are scheduled for Saturday night.

Stock Car Driver Sets Qualifying Mark

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (P) — Milton Hartlief of Louisville, Ky., whose qualifying speed of 119.641 miles an hour set a record, figured as the driver to beat today in the NASCAR 100-mile beach and road race for sportsman type stock cars.

Hartlief won the No. 1 starting position when his jacked-up 1942 Ford outsped 70 other limited modified stock cars in Thursday's qualifying runs.

No-Raid Pact May End Feud

WASHINGTON (P) — A "no-raid" agreement between the Washington Redskins and Calgary Stampede pointed the way today toward an end to the feud between professional football clubs in Canada and the United States.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League hailed the agreement as "a step in the right direction." He called on other clubs on both sides of the border to follow the lead and end the player raids.

Attorneys for the two clubs signed the agreement Thursday night, at the same time settling a $50,000 damage suit brought by the Redskins against Stampede coach Jack Hennemer for luring away two Redskins players.

Bernard Nordlinger, an attorney for the Redskins, said Calgary agreed to pay a "substantial" sum to settle the case out of court, but at the same time received clear title to one of the players.

George Preston Marshall, the Redskins' owner, said his club would accept the validity of the contract signed between tackle Bob Morgan and the Calgary club. The other player, Dick (Little Mo) Modelzewski, was ordered back to the Redskins.

The U. S. Open may not have been a financial bonanza for '54 champ Ed Furgol, but within three years he'll be set for life in charge of Dunlop's golf goods division... better security than the $85.60 check he received from one tourney this winter, although he finished the 72 holes four under par...

While he's on court, proud St. Green of Duquesne keeps track of the number of points scored by the man he's guarding and the number of rebounds he hauls down... so that against Niagara he was able to straighten out the official scorer who had him down for 12 rebounds, while Sihugo actually tucked in 21... Utah unceremoniously rescinded the basketball scholarships of two New York City freshmen while they were home on Christmas vacation... without carfare to go back...

Between you'n'me, pro football teams used to send out contracts to prospective employees in May, but now with the Canadian border just around the corner, they try to hook the kids in February... (NEA Feature)

Louise Suggs Leading Sarasota Open Field

SARASOTA, Fla. (P) — Louise Suggs was riding high in the Sarasota Women's Open golf tournament today while her old rival, Babe Zaharias, sat on the sidelines, a victim of illness and exhaustion.

The Babe, in bed with a virus attack the first three days this week, struggled through Thursday's opening 18 holes. Then her husband, George Zaharias, said she was withdrawing from the tournament on doctor's orders, but that she would resume her golfing "after a good rest."

He said she is suffering with a cold and the virus, and does not have a recurrence of her old cancer.

Miss Suggs zipped over the par 74 Bobby Jones course in 67. She had a three-stroke lead over Betty Hicks of Palm Springs, Calif.

Stage Set For Rocky To Defend Ring Title

NEW YORK (P) — Everything is set for Rocky Marciano to defend his world heavyweight title against Don Cockell, a pudgy Englishman, Thursday, May 19 at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. Only the formal signing remains.

All the financial details were ironed out Thursday at a conference in the office of Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. Marciano will get 40 per cent. Cockell 20 per cent of gate receipts and any extra TVor movie money.

In case Cockell-should upset the champ, there is a clause calling for a rematch within 90 days. It is likely the fight will be seen only on theater television.

Lou Stringer, former infielder for the Chicago Cubs, is now the manager of the Boise, Idaho, club in the Pioneer League.

Saddler Places Crown On Line

NEW YORK (P) — Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler finally takes his crown out of the deep freeze tonight against little old Teddy (Red Top) Davis in a title 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

This is the skinny, 28-year-old champion's first title defense in 41 months and he's a surprisingly low 7.5 favorite to beat the 31-year-old ex-railroad cook from Hartford, Conn.

On their records, Sandy (139-12-2) should be at least 3-1 over Davis (59-47-2), the "losingest" challenger of all time. If he wins, Red Top will be the oldest guy ever to capture the 126-pound diamond.

Maybe the odds are so small because virtually everyone has forgotten there's such a thing as a featherweight king. The National Boxing Assn., as a matter of fact, says there isn't. It lifted the New Yorker's crown for not defending it within the required six-month period but didn't name a successor. Tonight's victory, however, will be recognized as champ by the NBA.

There will be $30,000 added to the pot tonight from the radio-television receipts. A crowd of some 7,500 will pay about $30,000 at the gate. Saddler gets 40 per cent and Davis 20.

Teenagers May Take Play Away From Vets In Olympic Ski Meet

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (P) — A pair of teenagers, Rudy Maki of Ishpeming, Mich., and Ragnar Ulland of Seattle, head a group of sensational young stars who are expected to make it hot for veterans in Olympic ski jumping try-outs starting today.

A field of about 40 of the nation's best jumpers, including all six members of the 1952 Olympic team, will compete in three days of intense trials for six spots on the U. S. team that will be sent to the 1956 Winter Olympic Games at Cortina, Italy.

Maki, 19, won the national championship Feb. 6 at Leavenworth, Wash., against a field that included the six 1952 Olympic team members. His leaps were 270 and 259 for 221.6 points. Art Tolk of Chicago was second with 273-247—220.3.

In the same tournament, 17-year-old Ulland, competing in the boys' class, topped all entries with a 284-foot jump in a special exhibition. Earlier in practices he soared 296 feet.

The six 1952 team winners in the field are Tolk; Art Devlin of Lake Placid, N. Y.; Wilbur Rasmussen of Negaunee, Mich.; Ralph Bietila of Ishpeming, Mich.; Billy Olson of the University of Denver, and Keith Wegeman of Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Others in the younger group include Johnny Bednarz of Iron Mountain, 1952 Olympic alternate; Jack Hooper of Iron Mountain, 1955 Class B national champion; Ted Lahner of Eau Claire, Wis.; Marvin and Jack Bietila, Ishpeming.

Saban All For One-Platoon

By JERRY LISKA

EVANSTON, Ill. (P) — Northwestern's new head coach, professionally-groomed Lou Saban, said today he's all for college football's one-platoon system.

A former defensive star for the Cleveland Browns, the 33-year-old Saban said he thinks any player worth his salt should be a "45-minute man."

"I think the way college football is played now, it makes for the teamwork and coordination the game was intended to produce," said Saban, who only three weeks ago replaced Bob Voigts as Northwestern's grid boss.

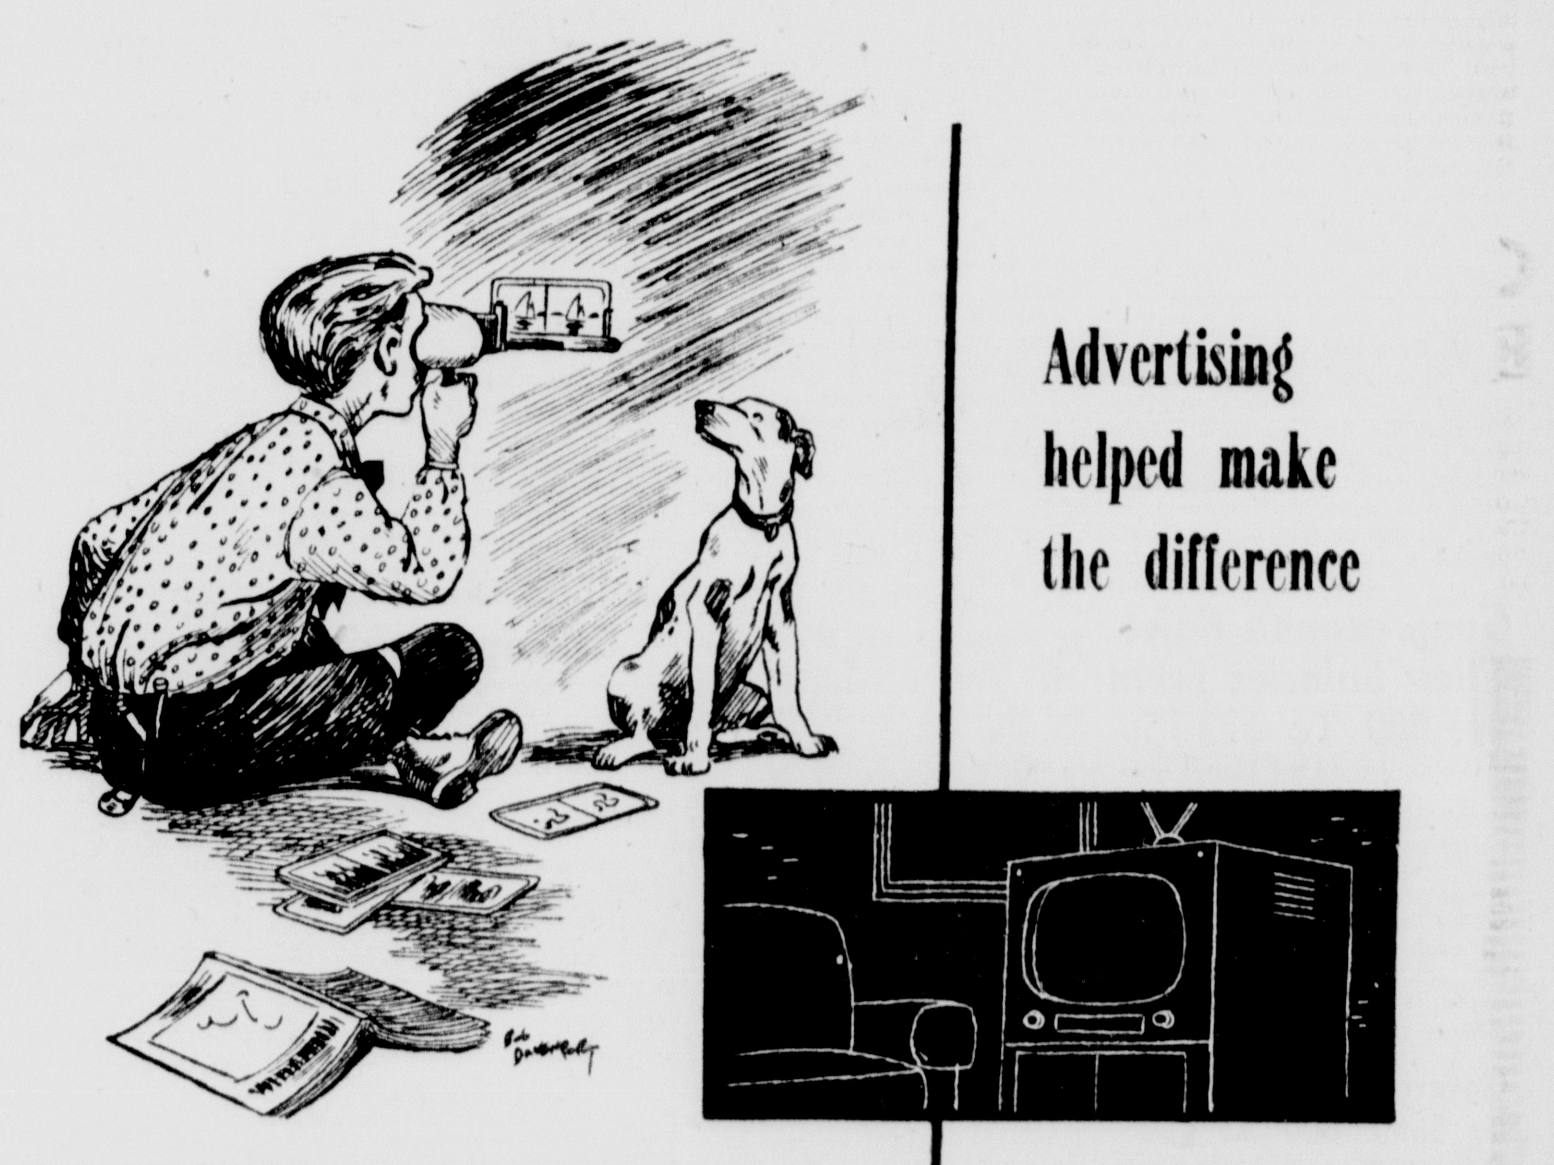

Voigts resigned under alumni pressure after an eight-season regime.

"It's a tough job converting high school stars, who like the pros play two-platoon football, but in my opinion a good player can go both ways," said Saban.

Saban, who had a head coaching fling at Case Tech in Cleveland after leaving the Browns, looks ahead confidently to his debut in the Big Ten circuit.

"We have good freshmen coming up, we'll have a good team," he said, adding with a smile, "Of course, I'm a born optimist."

Saban has big holes to fill at guard, quarterback and fullback. Saban is a proponent of the straight T and, as a matter of fact, doesn't think there is much difference between that and the Split T. "Especially, if you have a quarterback who can run with the ball," he said.

Advertising helped make the difference

AN EXCITING VIEW of the Grand Canyon was the high spot of the evening with an old-fashioned stereopticon. Today, the scene from our living room has been widened enormously. The whole world is on display. The magic of radio and television brings news and entertainment to millions of Americans.

But to mass produce millions of radios and television sets, manufacturers must be able to sell them by the millions. Only by advertising can a manufacturer talk to millions of people at the same time.

ADVERTISING TELLS the story of newer radios and television sets... and helps sell them. The more it sells, the more must be made — keeping the production lines and the jobs going. The result: newer, better sets at prices more people can afford to pay. Advertising helped make the difference — in radio and television, and in our American way of life.

Karas Concert Patrons Listed

Special contributions from Escanaba patrons and patronesses will assist in defraying expense incurred in bringing the Green Bay Symphonette to Escanaba for the third annual Karas Memorial Concert, to be presented Sunday evening in Wm. Oliver auditorium at Escanaba Junior High School.

This will assure that all proceeds from the sale of concert tickets will go to the Karas Memorial Bandshell Fund to be used in financing construction of a bandshell in Ludington Park, said Roy Pearson, committee chairman.

Names of the patrons and patronesses whose additional financial contributions are helping to assist the Karas concert this year were announced by Mrs. Catherine Locke, committee secretary, as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Alsten, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Anthony, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Arntzen, Mr. and Mrs. Erling Arntzen, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Aronson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benzing, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Chapekis, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crebo, Mr. and Mrs. James Degnan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Edick, Charles Folio, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Hall, Dr. and Mrs. William Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hirm, Dr. and Mrs. Norman L. Lindquist, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Maki, Mr. and Mrs. Denis McGinn, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shepeck, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Yelland.

The 55-piece symphony orchestra will come to Escanaba by bus Sunday afternoon, to play at 8 p. m. under the direction of Ralph Holter. Three Escanaba musicians, Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Beck and Elie DeDryver will play with the orchestra in the Karas Concert.

Deer Herds Start Licking The Bottom

LANSING (AP)—This is the time of year when Michigan's big deer herd starts licking the bottom of the dinner-pail.

At this point, the outlook is not particularly bright, in fact, wildlife experts say this may be the worst winter for deer since the disastrous 1950-51 season.

Getting Weaker

Already, there are reports of deer dropping from starvation in the area of Gladwin and Mio. Not too many, to be sure, but the winter is not yet over.

"When you can run the deer down with snowshoes—as our officers have been doing in the Gladwin area—you know they're not very ambitious animals," said

Barry Ruhl, Chief of the Conservation Department Game Division.

"This winter," he says, "could be worse than the last three. If they can break out of their yards by the 15th of March, they'll be all right. But if they're yarded until March 30, we're in real trouble."

The critical stage, if it follows the usual pattern, will continue through April. During the next two months, the deer have to break out of their yards, find the new vegetation and try to make the grade on what little body fat they have left after the winter.

Must Be Regulated

"Mass starvation may not come this winter," Ruhl said. "But it will come the next, or the next after that—unless the Conservation Commission can keep its power to regulate the size of the herd by setting special anti-deer seasons."

The possibility it will keep that power is slim. It takes an act of the Legislature to extend the power. And with the legislative session six weeks old, lawmakers haven't trampled themselves to be the first to introduce a bill extending it.

If the measure fails, conservation officials say, the deer herd will continue building up until starvation cuts it down to proper size again.

"Some people say they would rather see them die by starvation than see them shot," Ruhl says. "But they don't see them dying in the yards. We do."

Colder Weather To Continue In State

In Michigan colder weather will continue for the next five days, with temperatures averaging about 5 degrees below seasonal normal, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau office at Escanaba.

In Northern Michigan the temperature range will be from about 5 to 25 degrees. It will be slightly warmer Saturday, but colder Monday and Tuesday.

Living Cost Change Not Enough To Affect Auto Worker Wages

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors Corp. said today "there has been insufficient change" in the government's cost-of-living index in the last three months to affect the wages of auto workers.

GM did not say what the change, if any, had been from that announced last Dec. 15, when the index stood at 114.3 of the 1947-49 average.

Contracts of the CIO United Auto Workers are geared to the cost-of-living as reflected by the government's index. The index for the Oct. 15-Jan. 15 period was slated to be announced in Washington sometime today.

Auto workers lost a cent an hour in the July-October index, announced on Dec. 15. The drop then was .2 of one per cent.

Insane Criminals Rip Up Hospital

CROWNSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Insane criminals tore up their maximum security ward Thursday night at Crownsville State Hospital for Negroes, where riots are becoming a harbinger of spring.

The melee was the third in the same building in three years—all of them about this same time. Two attendants were hurt, but only slightly. Two others were trapped in the second-floor ward by the screaming patients but were later released unharmed.

The riot at the hospital eight miles north of Annapolis broke out about supper time. It ended two hours later when 60 Anne Arundel County policemen talked their way into the barricaded ward.

Chief Wilbur Wade said the eight ringleaders apparently wanted to be taken to Central Police Station in Baltimore. They agreed to surrender after being promised they would be taken there.

Several of the leaders had hidden razor blades in their mouths, Wade said. The eight were handcuffed and taken to the county jail at Annapolis.

During the riot, beds and benches were broken, pipes and other plumbing was torn from walls and ceilings and water ran ankle deep on the floors.

Cornell

Bridal Shower

CORNELL — A bridal shower was recently held in honor of Miss Therese Carignan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carignan, Cornell, at the Cornell hall.

Games were played with awards presented Mrs. Andrew Sinnave and Mrs. Gilbert VanDresse. Miss Carignan was presented many nice gifts. After the gifts were displayed, a buffet lunch was served 48 guests.

The hall was decorated with streamers of pink, yellow and blue. Party arrangements were made by Mrs. Leo Evans, Mrs. Ray DeGrand, Mrs. Rene Terrian and Mrs. Alfred Jolly. Those serving the lunch were Mrs. Bernard Buckland, Mrs. Ed Carignan, Mrs. Tuyls and Miss Carol Buckland.

Miss Carignan will become the bride of John Benz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benz, Cornell, at Holy Family Church, Flat Rock, April 16.

4-H Club

CORNELL — Cornell 4-H girls met at Annette Swanson's home Tuesday night, and a regular business meeting was held. A local dress review was planned for March 21 at the Cornell Hall. The girls sewed, and Annette played selections on the accordion. Lunch was served.

Economics Club

The Cornell Home Economics club recently met at the home of Mrs. Orville Wolfe. Project planning for the coming years was discussed. The group also decided to make a donation to the Gladstone Hospital fund, and planned as an extra project for the remainder of the year to make hospital gowns for the American Cancer Society. Lunch was served by the hostesses Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Warren Rose.

Mrs. Ted McFadden and Mrs. Tom Anderson will attend the next meeting in Escanaba on project planning March 3. The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the Barney Thompson home.

Briefs

Nels Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Swanson of Cornell has been promoted to instructor in a bayonet rifle range after three weeks training in the armed forces.

David Anderson was released from St. Francis Hospital, and he returned to his home in Cornell this week.

Tom Anderson suffered a dislocated shoulder as the result of a fall on the ice at his home in Boney Falls Wednesday night.

Tommy Steff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Steff, Cornell, was taken to St. Francis Hospital Wednesday suffering from burns.

All-Jet Bomber Booked For Brutal Testing In Alaska

ELMENDORF AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska (AP)—The Air Force's newest strategic bomber, the all-jet B52, may soon be brought to Alaska for tests under brutal weather conditions their pilots would expect to encounter in case of war.

There are some questions about arctic operations that cannot readily be answered back in the States, even in atmospheric test chambers or above 30,000 feet, where temperatures may go far below zero in summer.

Needs No Warmup

These questions are posed by the weather. In the air, they may take form in tricky, almost unpredictable arctic storms. On the ground, they are brought on by bitter, unrelenting cold.

There are reasons to believe that the all-jet B52 may possess distinct advantages over the present piston-jet B36 heavy bomber.

A major problem of arctic operation, for example, is "cold soak"—the congealing of lubricants, chilling of carburetors and condensation of vapor in fuel and oil lines that result from prolonged exposure of parked aircraft to extreme temperatures.

Among other things, a jet engine needs no "warm up" period prior to taking off. The white-hot flame sets the turbine spinning almost instantly. The pilot needs only to take a quick reading of instruments.

Another hazard of arctic air operations is "ice fog," created when low temperatures and the dew-point of moisture coincide. A single piston-engine plane making a takeoff run can create a blanket of ice fog which will hang over the runway for hours if there is no wind. This closes the runway to further takeoffs or landings.

But pilots believe that a jet engine has noticeably less tendency to create ice fog.

The mission of the 7th Weather Group, with its headquarters here and a reconnaissance squadron operating from Eielson Air Force Base, in the vicinity of Fairbanks, is to forecast the tricky storms that come rolling out of Siberia and down from the polar regions.

The 7th Weather Group is an element of a world service operated for the Air Force and Army. Information from this service also is fed into an international weather forecasting system, which includes Russian weather observations.

So far as can be determined, weather reports from the Russians are reasonably factual and accurate.

Indeed, there are examples of the Soviets going out of their way to be cooperative.

A single American plane flying a routine weather patrol along the American side of the iron curtain seems to cause no concern across Bering Strait. But if a second weather plane joins the first, Red fighters go aloft.

Passenger-Carrying Rockets Predicted In Next 15 Years

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The German general who commanded the Nazi's rocket development center at Peenemunde in World War II Thursday night predicted passenger-carrying rockets within the next 15 years.

Dr. Walter R. Dronberger, addressing the Cleveland-Akron section of the American Rocket Society and Institute of Aeronautical Sciences, showed slides of plans for a 90-foot-long rocket weighing 300 tons with a passenger-carrying pod mounted piggy-back. He said one section would disengage after its fuel was exhausted at about 80,000 feet. The passenger pod then would tap its own power to ascend to 150,000 feet.

The five powers are conferring as the U. N. Disarmament Commission subcommittee.

American officials said the United States stood behind the British-French plan for the eventual scrapping of all atomic and hydrogen weapons, but that it tied this in with step-by-step reductions in military manpower as well as conventional weapons.

The U. S. contribution to the program is a blueprint for an international control system with the powers to enforce disarmament measures on both sides of the Iron Curtain. The Russians have bitterly opposed opening their arsenals to outside inspection.

Fast Time Killed By Wisconsin Senate

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—All chances of daylight savings time for Wisconsin this summer have been killed by the state Senate.

By a vote of 17-13, the Senate Thursday decided on indefinite postponement of an assembly resolution providing for an advisory referendum in the April election on daylight saving time. The state's rural areas are traditionally opposed to it.

Optimism Grows In Manila Pact

BANGKOK (AP)—The eight-nation Manila Pact conference ended today on a note of optimism that progress has been made in strengthening the area against aggression.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles told the closing session of the three-day meeting:

"The way of the aggressor has been made harder."

Gathered to implement the treaty signed in Manila last September, the delegates established a permanent secretariat in Bangkok and set up committees on military, anti-subversion and economic matters to put teeth into the pact.

The eight nations are Pakistan, the Philippines, France, United States, Great Britain, New Zealand, Australia and Thailand.

Dulles told the delegates:

"We have taken decisions which will make the council of representatives an effective working party within the three areas dealt with by the pact, namely, defense against open, armed aggression; defense against subversion from without; and promotion of economic and social well-being."

Governor, 44, Greeted By Some 600 At $50 Grand Rapids Dinner

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Some 600 persons turned out Thursday night to honor Gov. G. Mennen Williams at a $50-a-plate testimonial-birthday dinner.

Williams was 44 years old Wednesday.

The governor spoke only briefly to thank supporters for the honor.

The "non-partisan" dinner was planned by Major F. Joseph Flaugh of Benton Harbor.

Proceeds go to the governor's radio-television fund.

Earlier in the day the governor's press secretary, Paul Weber, spiked a move to announce a Williams-for-President boom.

Kenneth Duchaine of Milwaukee visited over the weekend with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vermote and family. He also visited with relatives at Escanaba.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harris and family of Fort Atkinson, formerly of Perkins, spent Saturday here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yeaton and sons, William and Michael, of Marquette visited during the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. George Fournier.

The Peter Vermotes were informed that a son, Timothy Joseph, who weighed 7 pounds and 14 ounces at birth, was born Feb. 18 to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Arbor of Green Bay. Mrs. Arbor is the former Mary Vermote of St. Nicholas.

Sacred Heart Services

PERKINS—Stations of the Cross will be held every Monday at 6:30 p. m. during Lent at Sacred Heart Church at Rock. Confessions will follow the Wednesday evening services at St. Joseph's Church in Perkins and a discussion period at 7:45 p. m. will follow the services at the church Friday evenings.

Legion Party Sunday

The American Legion Post and Auxiliary will hold a party Sunday, Feb. 28, at 8 p. m. at the club house.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market worked quietly lower in the early afternoon today.

Volume was less than Thursday when the market also drifted downward. Losses extended to slightly more than a point but were generally small fractions.

Among the losers were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Telephone, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, General Electric, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Standard Oil (NJ) and Loew's.

Higher were Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, Schenley, Philco, Chesapeake & Ohio, Sinclair Oil, American Airlines and U. S. Gypsum. U. S. government bonds firmed.
